Craig Opposed Plane Sales to France, Group Members State President Overrode Objections From Chief of Staff AIRED POSITION General Objected Because Of Effect on U. S. Program

Washington—(P)—Members disclosed today that the senate military committee had received testimony that President Roosevelt overrode specific objections from General Malin Craig, army chief of staff to permit a French air mission to buy 100 American-made bombing planes of the latest type.

Secretary Morgenthau told the committee, Senator Austin (R-Vt.), said, that the president had overruled Craig's objections after a conference with Morgenthau, Craig and the secretary of the navy.

Craig objected, Austin said, the testimony disclosed, that if the French were permitted to purchase planes being produced for army use that this might interfere with the army's procurement of the necessary planes in time to meet requirements under the administration's new defense program.

Craig also said, Austin reported, that the French plane deal might deprive the army entirely of the Douglas light bombers.

Ordered 100 Planes

It was a plane of this type which crashed in California recently, the publicity following the crash revealing the presence of a representative of the French air ministry as a passenger and touching off the committee's investigation.

Austin said testimony before the committee showed that the French had placed an order for 100 planes of this type, ships being developed for later competition for army aircraft.

Although Austin said that Secretary Morgenthau himself had asked today that his previous testimony about the French plane deal be made public, Chairman Sheppard (D-Texas) said the committee could not do this.

In this testimony, given two weeks ago, Morgenthau was asked why the treasury department should have become involved in a military purchase.

Morgenthau discussed the negotiations leading to the granting of special permission to the French mission.

At President's Request
"I thought that I had made it plain," he said in reply to another question, "that we did it at the request of the president."

Pressed on this point, he said, that "the president himself" had taken the action and added:

"The president asked us to do it." Sheppard said he considered the committee's investigation of the French plane deal closed. He announced that the committee would begin work tomorrow morning on the $26,000,000 defense bill passed by the house yesterday.

Meanwhile, there were other developments in the national defense-foreign affairs situation:

1. The house passed yesterday, 367 to 15, the bill of President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defense program. The bill authorizes $300,000,000 for air defenses, including 3,000 new army planes, $23,500,000 for Pacific canal defenses, and $34,500,000 for "educational orders" to private manufacturers. It now goes to the senate.

2. Senator Bridges (R-N. H.) said the military committee at his request had agreed to call in Hugh Wilson, ambassador to Germany, for a report on conditions in Europe. Bridges said he had a "suspicion" that Wilson's attitude was less pessimistic than that expressed recently by Joseph P. Kennedy and William C. Bullitt, ambassadors to London and Paris, respectively.

3. Senator Clark (D-Mo.) appeared in a radio address for legislation to "tax the profits out of war" and for more stringent neutrality laws.

4. Senator Barbour (R-N. J.) proposed mandatory prison sentences for persons convicted of peacetime espionage or sabotage.

TO PARENTS AND TEACHERS

All teaching should be "holistic," President Cowley of Hamilton College, defining "holism" as education in the emotional, moral, religious, social, esthetic and physical as well as the intellectual development of the students. It is an inclusive program. Leaves nothing for the parents to teach except contract bridge, in the certainty that every graduate's head will be comfortably full of "holism." Or "maybe" "holism" is not useful in the Post-Crescent classified want-ads. This one was check full of results.

Wisconsin's Old Folk Besiege Capitol To Demand $50,000,000 Yearly Pension for 120,000 Aged

READY TO RESIGN

Washington—(P)—Joseph B. Keenan (above), who frequently has been a White House "contact man" on Capitol Hill, is expected to resign soon from his position of assistant to the attorney general.

There has been no formal announcement but it was learned from friends that Keenan made a pre-Christmas arrangement with President Roosevelt to retire. Keenan himself said any announcement must come from the White House.

Indiana Feudist Admits Guilt in Ambush Slaying

'Roach's Uncle Killed My Brother, Bill, 40 Years Ago,' He Says

Bedford, Ind.—(P)—An old feud between two southern Indiana hill families was blamed today for the confessed ambush killing of a 41-year-old farmer by his next-door neighbor.

Donald F. Stiver, state police superintendent, announced the confession at headquarters in Indianapolis last night.

He said Samuel Pierce, 69, had admitted shooting, clubbing and stabbing Earl R. Roach until he died Sunday northwest of here near the village of Avoca.

Pierce, a six-foot, 185-pound man in overalls, calmly explained to newspapermen: "Roach's uncle killed my brother, Bill, 40 years ago."

Feeling against Pierce was running here and he was placed in a nearby jail overnight for safe keeping.

Missing Two Days
A searching party of WPA men and others found Roach's battered body Tuesday. It had been leaned against a tree and covered partially by underbrush. Roach had been missing two days.

Sheriff Lincoln Dunbar of Lawrence county arrested Pierce and his son, Ray, 27, because, he said, they had argued with Roach over placing of a line fence. The son was freed yesterday. The elderly farmer has three other sons and five daughters.

Stiver said Samuel Pierce's fingerprints were on a bloody club which lay near Roach's body. Police said Pierce confessed as detectives made ready to use a lie detector on him.

Sheriff Dunbar said a feud between the Pierces and the Roach family had been going on for "years and years."

"They fought over line fences, water holes and almost everything," he added.

Pierce admitted, the sheriff said, he had waited behind bushes three or four afternoons before the Sunday morning slaying.

Decide Bituminous Commission Is Legal

Washington—(P)—A three-judge federal court ruled here today that the law creating the national bituminous coal commission is constitutional.

The decision came in a proceeding in which the city of Atlanta, Ga., attempted to restrain the commission from promulgating minimum price orders.

The court, specially designed to hear the case, denied Atlanta's application for an injunction and granted the government's motion to dismiss the litigation.

"We hold," said the tribunal, "that the act constitutes no infringement of the sovereign power of the city of Atlanta, a governmental subdivision of the state of Georgia, and no usurpation of powers reserved to the states by the tenth amendment."

"As the fixing of coal prices, as provided by the act, comes properly within the scope of the commerce clause (of the federal constitution), conflicting powers of the state must give way so far as may be necessary."

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Last fall, before the election, a ranking Wisconsin politician aptly characterized old-age pensions as an alluring young woman to whom all politicians and all parties paid passionate court. Today, after the election, the once seductive lass appears to have lost some of her appeal, so she is taking matters into her own hands.

Yesterday was "old folks day" at the capitol, a throng estimated at from 2500 to 3000 aged men and women, the largest mass descent on the state legislature in years, appeared to impress on the worried members of the state legislature and the responsible heads of the state administration that they will break no more delay in the passage of a bill to give every person over 60 years $60 a month, no less.

Come by Trainload
The capital yesterday presented a scene which only a dramatist could do justice. Trainloads of aged from all parts of the state, organized by the professional leaders of the pension clubs, grizzled, some of them walking with canes, all of them gray, but driven by the hope of a generous old-age pension check for the rest of their lives, crammed into senate and assembly chambers to hear their leaders, and pension politicians, justify their demands.

Hundreds of old men and women from Green Bay, Racine, Milwaukee, Appleton and other cities of the state packed the galleries, the floor space, and wedged in the corridors leading into the legislative chambers to hear still another explanation of the features of the bill they know, so well, a measure which would raise $50,000,000 a year, would grant $60 to individuals and $120 to married couples over 60, would remove counties from pension administration altogether, which would help business, restore purchasing power, make jobs for youth, and many other things.

President Ready To Take Vacation

Will Leave Saturday to See Part of Fleet Maneuvers

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt cleared up pressing government business today so he can spend the next two weeks on a man-of-war in the Caribbean.

Leaving behind a balky congress, he will depart later tonight by special train for Key West, Fla., where he will board the 9,050-ton cruiser Houston Saturday to witness part of the fleet maneuvers.

The voyage was planned several weeks ago with a double purpose: to give the naval-minded president a glimpse of the greatest armada ever to assemble in the Atlantic for mimic battle and an opportunity to rest from congressional problems.

His physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, said the trip also would help the president rid himself completely of a week-old attack of grippe.

World attention has been focused on the fleet maneuvers, designed to test the Atlantic defenses of the Panama canal. A total of 140 ships, 600 planes and upwards of 55,000 officers and men are taking part.

Mr. Roosevelt, during his periods of relaxation on the sunny deck of the Houston, will have a chance to ponder contentions by some Democrats that further cooperation should be shown between the White House and party members in congress.

Spanish Government Leaders Debate on Course in Conflict

Paris—(P)—Peace or more war in Spain appeared today to depend on the counsel of chief officers of the Spanish Republic.

The first party, between the moderate wing of the Spanish government suing for peace with the insurgents and the die-hards trying to carry on the civil war, ended last night in deadlock. Further talks were anticipated.

Behind closely-guarded gates of the Spanish embassy in the fashionable Champs Elysees quarter, Manuel Azana, self-exiled but still president of Spain, held out for peace.

With him were his two highest ranking envoys, Marcelino Pascua, ambassador to Paris, and Pablo de Azcarate y Florer, ambassador to London.

The Madrid foreign minister, Julio Alvarez del Vayo, arrived by plane yesterday from Madrid to act for Premier Juan Negrin, who wants a continuance of the war.

Postpone Hearing on Manslaughter Charge

Oconomowoc, Wis.—(P)—A preliminary hearing for Michael Kane, 24, of Oconomowoc, on a charge of first degree manslaughter was postponed today until next Monday because of the illness of district Attorney Scott Lowry.

Kane was arrested after Peter Butchke, 15-year old high school sophomore, was killed by a hit-and-run motorist while riding his bicycle along Highway 19 last Sunday.

Sheriff Alvin Reider said Kane admitted having struck something but did not know what it was.

Hopkins and Murphy Seek To End Rifts

Hope for Harmony Between White House and Democratic Senators

FEAR G. O. P. GAINS

Think Split in Democratic Ranks Might Win For Republicans in '40

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt's newest cabinet members—Harry L. Hopkins and Frank Murphy—were reported by usually well-informed persons today to be working for harmony between the White House and dissident Democratic senators.

Hopkins and Murphy, it was said, are concerned lest differences in Democratic ranks bring a Republican victory in 1940.

Because Hopkins is a close White House adviser and also is friendly with many opposition senators, some politicians expressed belief he might go far toward finding a common meeting ground for divergent party factions.

Murphy's first effort toward party harmony, authoritative reports said, may be a recommendation that the chief executive appoint Harold M. Stephens of Utah to succeed the retired Justice Brandeis on the supreme court.

Won't Push Candidates
Stephens now is a member of the federal court of appeals for the District of Columbia. Several western senators have been urging a man from their section be named.

The party differences were emphasized today when three western senators disclosed they would make no recommendations for the high court appointment.

"Why make any?" asked Senator Clark (D-Mo.). "The president never has paid any attention to recommendations."

Clark's colleague, Senator Burke (D-Mo.), and Senator Truman (D-Mo.), expressed similar opinions.

Various presidential appointments this winter have served to widen the rift between the White House and anti-administration senators. Pepper (D-Fla.), a New Deal supporter, declared today there was a serious breach in Democratic ranks.

"People can commit suicide if they want to," he said, "and I think that is what the Democrats are doing."

House Group Continues Its Economy Drive

Slashes Legislative Bill $2,137,248 for Fiscal Year

$22,150,698 TOTAL

'Reluctantly' Votes Fund To Repair Roofs of Congress Wings

Washington—(P)—The house appropriations committee continued its economy drive today by recommending an appropriation of only $22,150,698 to run the legislative establishment for the next fiscal year—$2,137,248 less than the estimates.

This reduction was effected despite the fact that the committee, alarmed by an engineers' report that the roofs of the senate and house wings of the capitol fall far short of modern safety requirements, "reluctantly included" $585,000 to remedy the defect.

The committee turned thumbs down on a request for $300,000 for installation of a "moving sidewalk" in the subway linking the capitol and the two house office buildings.

Under Current Fund
In addition to being below the estimates submitted, the total carried in the bill was $60,185 less than the sum provided for the current fiscal year.

Of the total, $8,316,730 was earmarked for the house and $3,353,454 for the senate—including the $10,000 annual salaries for each senator and representative.

The bill also carried $3,094,475 for the library of congress; $3,685,000 for the government printing office, and $106,455 for the botanic gardens.

Most of the savings resulted from rejection of requests by the capitol architect for funds to repair the terraces, sidewalks and make other improvements on the capitol grounds.

German Press in Attack Upon U. S.

London Welcomes Huge Increase in Re-Armament Program

London—(P)—The announcement of the vast increase in Britain's re-armament drive was welcomed here today but in Germany it produced a sharp thrust at the United States.

Chancellor Hitler's own newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, scored the United States for "increasing international tension" by selling war materials to European countries.

Presumably the newspaper referred to the sale of airplanes to Britain and France.

Commenting on the announcement to parliament by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, that British re-armament this year would cost $80,000,000 pounds ($2,400,000,000), an increase of 175,000,000 pounds ($875,000,000) Voelkischer Beobachter regretted the tempo of re-arming was determined by states whose national requirements in the German view did not justify such measures.

The paper said: "We are thinking primarily of the United States which has not only under a deliberately false pretext of the 'threatening of America' increased its own armaments by leaps and bounds, but also today in the midst of peace the United States appears in Europe as supplier of war materials on a large scale and thus increases international tension emanating from this wave of armaments."

Heil Calls Special Milwaukee Election

Madison—(P)—Governor Heil has issued a proclamation calling a special election on April 4 to fill out two Milwaukee county legislative posts.

A state senate seat was left vacant with the death of Oscar H. Morris. An assembly post was left unoccupied by the resignation of Milton T. Murray, who said he would be a candidate for the senate seat.

After paying tribute to the late pope's virtues, Von Bergen said: "We are living and acting in one of the most decisive hours in history."

"We are present at the development of a new world which is to be erected on the ruins of the past, which in many respects no longer has a reason for existence. We hope the new world will be peaceful."

Foreign circles noted a similarity between the ambassador's reference to a "new world" and the "new Europe" which Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy repeatedly have asserted must be created.

"And the papacy," Von Bergen continued, "undoubtedly has an essential role."

2 Killed, 7 Hurt In Train Smashup In Mississippi

Witness Says Passenger Train Crashed Head- on Into Freight

Quincy, Miss.—(P)—Two men were killed and seven were injured, one probably fatally, early today in a head-on collision between a fast Frisco passenger train and a freight train one mile west of here.

The dead: George W. Bowers, about 60 years old, of Birmingham, engineer of the Sunnysland, the passenger train; and Laddie Ivy, porter of the train.

R. L. Dunn, Cordova, Ala., who W. O. Willis, editor of the Amory (Miss.) News said was riding behind the freight engine, was so badly scalded he was not expected to recover.

Willis said the collision occurred on a sharp curve when the Sunnysland going at high speed, plowed head-on into the freight train which had stopped.

The crew of the freight train, Willis said, jumped to safety. "Fasting Dean" Aboard
Among those reported on board the Sunnysland was the Rev. Israel H. Noe, former "fasting dean" of Memphis, who was shaken and bruised. The minister is now rector of the St. James Episcopal parish at Memphis.

The Sunnysland was enroute from Kansas City to Atlanta. The Gilmore sanitarium at Armory issued a list of seven who were treated for injuries there. They were:

R. L. Dunn, Cordova, Ala., seriously burned; Mac Jones, Birmingham, Ala., conductor on the passenger train, in serious condition with head injuries; George T. Williams, Dora, Ala., head lacerations; J. W. Howell, Whitehaven, Tenn., head contusions, injured ribs. Bert Davis, Holly Springs, Miss., dislocated left shoulder; Zuma T. Howell, Memphis, fractured ribs; Elmo Beutwell, Memphis, body bruises.

Attendants said the seven probably would remain in the hospital for treatment. Doctors there said they had treated "two or three" others for minor injuries.

Seeks Review in Washburn Case

Attorney for Clintonville Mayor Asks Writ of Circuit Judge

Wausau—(P)—Attorney Wendell McHenry petitioned Judge Herman J. Severson for a writ of certiorari Wednesday in order to bring before the circuit court for review, the findings and certificate of Judge A. M. Scheller regarding the recall petition of Mayor Andrew A. Washburn of Clintonville. McHenry alleges the petition for recall to be insufficient for three reasons: that the name of Washburn is listed incorrectly and would bar him from having his name placed upon the ballot at any special election called under the recall election. McHenry, counsel for the defendant with Brunner and Brunner, Clintonville, also maintains no specific grounds for the removal of Washburn from office have been mentioned—no dates, names or details.

In his petition he demands that all papers relating to the recall that are now in the hands of the city clerk of Clintonville, Selmer J. Tilsen, be returned to the circuit court.

The writ is returnable the first day of the next term of court, which in this instance is May 1.

Judge A. M. Scheller certified Feb. 10 that the petition for the recall of Mayor Washburn was filed in compliance with the law, and that the 607 signatures on the 60 sheets in the petition were more than the required number, in this case 568. The petitions were circulated by the Clintonville Taxpayers' league, and in the case of another election the league will endorse the name of Attorney John Spengler for mayor.

Gettelman Resolution Referred to Committee

Madison—(P)—The state senate today referred to committee for public hearing a resolution of Bernard Gettelman (R), Milwaukee, condemning University of Wisconsin regents for failing to reject a $2,500 cut for the education of white, Christian and Protestant women students.

Senators who opposed either the principle or language expressed in the resolution lost out by one vote on a move to place the measure with the committee on legislative procedure which could delay action or report it out for a vote.

On a 16 to 15 roll call, the resolution was sent to the committee on education and public welfare.

The gift, made by Clara Oppert of Washington, D. C., caused dissension among the regents at their meeting here last Saturday because of the conditions attached.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Washington—(P)—Marvin H. McIntyre (above), secretary to President Roosevelt, was taken ill with intestinal influenza today and doctors ordered him to the Naval hospital for treatment. One of many federal officials, including the president, who have been hit by gripe or flu, McIntyre's condition was described at the White House as quite serious.

Ordinance Body Gets Petitions Asking Wage Cut

Aldermen Defend Salary Scale; McGillan Raps Press for Publicity

The petitions carrying 1,578 certified signatures of voters and asking aldermen to cut their own wages from $500 to $250 per year were submitted at last night's council meeting and were referred to the ordinance committee by a unanimous vote of the council.

The proposal to cut aldermanic salaries was expected and aldermen were prepared. It came after aldermen refused to act on a 1939 salary ordinance at the first February meeting.

More than 1,600 signatures were submitted and the city clerk certified 1,578 names, more than enough to make the request conform with the law. The question must be submitted to the voters unless the aldermen adopt the ordinance proposal.

Alderman VanderHeyden denied ever receiving $500 for being an alderman in Appleton and maintained he will not have received that amount until April this year. He also denied ever receiving any money for committee service.

He attempted to justify the wages aldermen are getting and told of the work councilmen do that no one knows about. He reminded the audience of the national economic depression.

Five Bandits Seize $35,000 From Bank Messengers, Officer

Norwalk, Conn.—(P)—Five bandits held up two bank messengers and a policeman today and escaped with an estimated $35,000 after firing at the officer and then slugging him with a pistol butt.

The messengers and their guard had just got the currency intended for the City National bank, from the post office when on the street outside four men alighted from an automobile and commanded "give us that money."

Two of the bandits snatched the money, contained in a leather pouch, from the messengers while two others set upon the policeman. During the struggle one of the gunmen fired a shot at the officer but it missed its mark. A fifth man stayed behind the car wheel.

4 Union Organizers Held in Los Angeles

Los Angeles—(P)—Indicted by the county grand jury on charges of intimidating non-union workers at the Chrysler Motor company plant here, four organizers for the International Union of Automobile Workers of America, were under arrest today.

Police were seeking 11 others named in the indictments which charge one count of conspiracy, nine counts of extortion and three of attempted extortion.

Fire Destroys Rural School; Pupils Flee

Lancaster, Wis.—(P)—Seventeen pupils, ranging in age from 6 to 14, escaped without injury yesterday when fire destroyed rural district school No. 12 near here. While Miss Simonsen, the teacher, rang an alarm bell, the pupils gathered up their books and marched out into the schoolyard.

Opposes Separate Policies for Sources Of Power

OFFERS REPORT

Committee Proposes Program, Investigation And Laws

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt submitted to congress for its consideration today a national resources committee report proposing policies, investigations and legislation to carry forward a broad national program for the "prudent utilization and conservation of the nation's energy resources."

In a special message the president said national policies concerning coal, oil, gas and water power "must recognize the availability of all of them," instead of prescribing separate policies for each.

"Some federal legislation affecting the energy resources will expire at the end of this fiscal year, other legislation at the end of a few more years," Mr. Roosevelt said. "This report sets forth a useful frame of reference for legislative program affecting these resources and illustrates another approach to the systematic husbandry of our national resources. Specific recommendations and advanced for solution of the most pressing problem."

More Energy Needed
Mr. Roosevelt said the United States uses more energy per capita than any other nation and "our scientists tell us there will be a progressively increasing demand for energy for all purposes."

"Our energy resources are not inexhaustible," he asserted, "yet we are permitting waste in their use and production. In some instances, to achieve apparent economies, we are creating a generation of 'cheap' coal, and this generation will be forced to carry the burden of unnecessarily high costs and to substitute inferior fuels for particular purposes."

Ammon States He Welcomes Probe Of Department

Says Investigation Would Bring Improvement In Service

Madison—(AP)—The state department of agriculture and markets, through Director Ralph E. Ammon, today welcomed a legislative investigation of its personnel and activities as proposed in a joint resolution introduced by four assemblymen.

Ammon told the assembly agriculture committee at a hearing yesterday that the department has nothing to hide and the sooner the investigation get underway the better it will be for the state service.

He and Harry Jack, chairman of the seven man board now supervising the policies of the department said some of the employees were not doing efficient work but they are protected by civil service.

Jack declared Ammon has been doing all he can to administer the department on an efficient basis but that civil service laws, the state employees association and interested legislators are obstacles to removing employees who are not fulfilling their jobs.

Cites Kluefer Demotion Ammon cited the recent action of the board in demoting Harry Kluefer, chief of the dairy and food division and J. W. Moore, who was in charge of cheese inspection. He said these officials had been at "sword points" for more than 10 years and that when he took charge a year ago he purposely put them in the same division to see if they would cooperate or bring their dispute to a head. They took the latter course, he added.

Ammon said he felt there was recourse in the civil service laws for discharging inefficient workers but because of the opposition encountered department heads have to "burn up too much energy" to effect removals.

Chairman Jack said he believed farmers have more confidence in the department today than ever before. Ammon asserted that the proposed investigation will disclose any cases of friction in the department.

Would Help Bureau "If, after the investigation you can say we are trying to do a real job for the farmers, it will be a good thing for the department and agriculture will be willing to believe in us and cooperate with us," he said.

The resolution was sponsored by Assemblyman Biehler (D) Belsham; Smith (D) Algoma; Miller (R) West Salem; Swanson (P) Ellsworth.

Biehler and Swanson, who spoke for the resolution, said that many farmers have been dissatisfied with the department over a long period of years.

"If there are men in this department who have been laying down on the job, that fact should be made known to the farmers," Biehler stated. "If they are not fulfilling their responsibilities they should not be on the pay roll."

"I am serving notice on the party which is now in power that unless they give the farmers some consideration they won't have to spend any money trying to get reelected."

Girl Scout Rally Planned in March

About 100 Expected to Take Part in Event At Kimberly

Kimberly—A Girl Scout rally is being planned by scout leaders in March, according to Miss Dorothy Weade, scout director. Miss Weade is succeeding Mrs. Clifford Jurgenson, who moved to Neenah recently.

Miss Weade, who formerly held that office, is the science-French teacher at the high school. About a hundred scouts will take part in the rally while about twenty-five tenderfoot scouts will be invested and a number also will receive their second class awards.

Other scout leaders are: Miss Marie Van Himbergen, captain of the second class scouts; assisted by Miss Elaine Ouellette; Mrs. W. H. Webb, tenderfoot scouts; with Miss Ora Detchen as lieutenant; Miss Lucille McLeod and Miss Jean Murphy, grade teachers at the public school, in charge of Brownies, assisted by Miss Mary Kerkhof.

The Fleur-de-Lis club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Joseph Mennen, Tuesday evening. Schafkopf was played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Clara La Berge, first; Mrs. Phil Brum, second, and Mrs. Edward Krueger, traveling.

Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. Joseph Martineau.

Castor Oil, Bread and Water Await Drunks Rockford, Ill.—(AP)—Sheriff William C. Bell posted a new menu for some of the Winnebago county jail prisoners.

Those confined to the jail on charges of drunkenness will be placed on a fare of castor oil, bread and water. The castor oil will be for punishment, said the sheriff who declared he was tired of having the same men in jail repeatedly.

dience that the present council cut the tax rate for 1939.

"I'm concerned as a taxpayer in Appleton and I don't want to pay any more than I have to," he said. "I'm not a bit alarmed about the criticism. The low tax rate we have in Appleton is because the aldermen here have learned to do their jobs right."

He told the audience that in 1938, as a member of the board of public works, he put in 1,138 hours of work to "protect your interests and mine." This was all in addition to council meetings and the many hours he was forced to spend attending to city business outside of city hall, he said.

Money, Secondary "Being an alderman is a never-ending task and I don't like the impression that I've taken anything that I didn't earn," he said. "If I'm elected I won't take the job for what is in it. The money is secondary."

Alderman McGilligan scored the issue and accused the newspaper of inaccuracy in telling the story. He also accused the group behind the 18-ward plan in vague terms, of launching a move for the manager form of government.

"With the council everything is open and above board so they say we get too much money to get us out of the state," he said.

Alderman Grignon discussed the work of the council and said aldermen will have more work under the 18-ward plan than they do under the present system.

"If the voters see fit to cut our wages to $250, I'll serve it. I'm elected and do the best I can," Alderman Grignon said. "If all I had to do is come to council meetings and vote, I'd do it for nothing."

Before the discussion of aldermanic salaries, the council authorized the city clerk to advertise for bids for a new oiling machine for oiling streets.

Fireworks Ordinance The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare an ordinance prohibiting the sale and use of fireworks in Appleton. The move for the ordinance was started by the Appleton Woman's club and is backed by service clubs and the American Legion.

The council approved tax rebates to five property owners and authorized the cancellation of 24 special assessments.

Alfred Breitrick, 117 S. Appleton street, was granted a license to operate a tavern in the city at half the usual fee because he will have to apply for a new license in July.

The General Fire hose company was awarded a contract to furnish the city 1,500 feet of fire hose at 67 cents per foot. The company submitted the lowest of eight bids.

Alfred C. Bosser, 221 E. Lawrence street, was given a permit to remodel a home at 514-S16 S. Memorial drive. He will rebuild the residence to house three families.

Fire Chief George P. McGilligan was given permission to attend a celebration of the fifth anniversary of George McKellogg, fire chief in Sioux City, Iowa.

Wants to Transfer County Highway D To State's System

Clintonville Assemblyman Says State Should Take Over This Road

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Assemblyman Julius Spearbreaker of Clintonville, (R), said today that he would push for passage of legislation which would transfer County Trunk D in Waupaca county to the state trunk highway system.

The county trunk extends from Clintonville through Waupaca and Shawano counties to Antigo, a distance of about 50 miles. A bill to make the strip a part of the state system also bears the name of Assemblyman Melvin Schlytter of Wittenberg (R).

Spearbreaker said that the state highway commission in previous years has expressed itself favorably on the proposition, and said that the move is supported by local residents in the hope that state maintenance and improvements will be more extensive than the county has been able to make recently.

Spearbreaker also introduced a substitute amendment for his controversial $1 straight fishing license bill, which has evoked much criticism from individual fishermen, and from some organized sportsmen's groups. He proposed a universal $1 annual fee for rod and reel, cane pole, resident and non-resident fishermen, declaring that it would raise more revenue than the present licensing system.

His substitute proposal would enact a $1 fee for out of state males over 16 for fishing for a ten day period, and a 50 cent fee for wives accompanying their husbands. After the ten day period the present $3 out of state license fee would be exacted.

Residents, however, would be subjected to the $1 annual fee for both rod and reel and cane pole fishing.

The Waupaca county legislator has also prepared bills which would compel the state and the counties to build and maintain state trunk and county trunk highways within city boundaries.

The latter proposals are ardently supported by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, which has long contended that local governments, and local property, bear an inequitable share of highway costs.

Oshkosh Man to Judge Dog Match

Kennel Club to Sponsor Puppy Show at Neenah Sunday Afternoon

Stanford Whitaker, Oshkosh dog authority, has been obtained to judge the "puppy" matches which will be sponsored by the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club at Neenah Sunday afternoon.

The matches will be sanctioned by the American Kennel association and judging will begin at 2:30 in the afternoon in the Danish Brotherhood hall.

Entries will be limited to members' dogs only. However, committee members said dog fanciers may enter dogs along with their applications for membership. The show probably will be followed by an open show in the spring.

Whitaker's ability as a dog breeder, handler, and judge is well known throughout the middle west. His canine experience began in England. He will judge the dogs in four classes in varying ages from 2 to 12 months.

Memberships in the club and puppy entries will be taken at the door on the day of the show.

Medical Society to Hear Chicago Doctor

A talk on "The Diagnosis of Lower Back Conditions" by Dr. George L. Applebach, attending surgeon at Cook County hospital, Chicago, will be heard by members of the Outagamie County Medical society this evening at the Conway hotel. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30.

Passage of the bill, he revealed, would put on the pension rolls immediately 80,000 persons in addition to the 41,000 already there. Gettleman proudly pointed out that "I am one of the authors of this bill," and promised that Governor Heil would sign it.

Many others made brief appearances. Among them were Mrs. Claire Horton of Madison, who said she was a "Republican I am proud to say that I am for this bill," E. A. Seifert of Waukesha, who chanced by turns, and offered salty gratuitous comments from the audience.

All of the foremost political spokesmen for the pension cause were on hand. Speaking again were Senators Arthur Zimny and Bernard Gettleman of Milwaukee, respectively, who proudly told that they authored the bill. Assemblyman A. J. Balzer of West Allis, Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, P. J. Zisch, who makes a job of running a state-wide pension league and whose handiwork is the $80 bill, W. H. Markham, of Horicon, who is running for the supreme court in the April elections, and sundry others.

$60 is Minimum They all had one refrain: the $60 bill is the absolute minimum which the aged will accept. One speaker threatened the recall of every senator and assemblyman who votes against it.

Zisch appeared with a new tax idea, at the suggestion of those senators who found his original 2 per cent gross income tax proposal somewhat hard to fathom after his explanations.

This time he has a net operating income tax, which is also difficult to understand, but goes like this: On incomes derived from business, occupation or profession, the tax will be computed on the gross income after allowances have been made for the deduction of wages, necessary expenses in operation and maintenance, and depreciation.

On all other income, the tax shall be computed on the gross.

The rate will be 3 per cent on the first $1,000, 5 per cent on the next $4,000, and 7 per cent on all over $5,000. There will be deducted, the amended tax proposal says, after the tax has been computed, one-half the exemption which is allowed under the present normal income tax law.

It was a good afternoon for the regular political pension spokesmen. Fred Zimmerman, whose job is to keep the state's books in order as secretary of state, pointed out that he is "for pensions not only before the campaign, but during the campaign and now. We've already got pensions for teachers, firemen, and judges of the supreme court who get $20,000 a year. We don't ask for that much. It's not for the old folks, but for the young folks too."

"I'm for pensions," he repeated. Zisch, speaking for the Citizens' Pension and Recovery Plan, told the legislative committee that "we ask you to assume your responsibility to the people of Wisconsin."

He explained that his bill would compel the aged to surrender their jobs to younger workers before they could be eligible for payments that they must spend their checks within 30 days within the state, and that it would not permit hoarding.

Besides, he observed, the bill if made into law would be a lesson to other states who would envy the prosperous business conditions which it is bound to produce.

Zisch started an overwhelming of some of the state newspapers who have been dubious of the plan's validity, and particularly of its tax feature, but he was stopped by Chairman E. A. Seifert.

121,000 Pensioners Passage of the bill, he revealed, would put on the pension rolls immediately 80,000 persons in addition to the 41,000 already there. Gettleman proudly pointed out that "I am one of the authors of this bill," and promised that Governor Heil would sign it.

Many others made brief appearances. Among them were Mrs. Claire Horton of Madison, who said she was a "Republican I am proud to say that I am for this bill," E. A. Seifert of Waukesha, who was introduced by Zisch to explain the tax plan as "an expert tax analyst," did little explaining. His theme was the fuller flow of purchasing power, needed to prevent a "complete industrial breakdown in America," which the disbursement of $60 a month to the aged will bring.

He said, however, that a sales tax is taboo, because it would have to be paid by the poor, including the recipients of the old-age pensions.

A significant commentary on the position of pensions among the state's political questions was the response which met Senator Roethlisberger's question deep in the afternoon: "Is anybody in opposition to this bill?" He was greeted by cheers.

A more moderate pension proposal, by Allan J. Busby of West Allis, a Progressive, would raise the present $30 maximum to $40 a month by means of a stiff increase in present income tax rates on incomes over $4,000.

Busby, appearing for his measure, observed that he "feels like a miser."

"Sit down; you can't talk to us," one woman commanded from the audience.

Calls It Mirage Busby thought that the $60 plan may be a "mirage in the desert" while his bill may be the cup of water which you so desire.

He said that he would favor the more generous bill, but that he doubted that such a "big stride" can be taken all at once. He said that his bill would raise $5,000,000 a year in new taxes for pensions.

As the meeting warmed up, Busby was slightly badgered by free-for-all questioning from the audience, with frequent insistent statements that "show us how anybody can live on $40 a month." One man remarked that the present scale of $20 "they're beating the underlaker all right, but they're not living."

At this point Seifert broke in to insist on favorable action on the $60 bill, and to threaten recall petitions for anybody voting against it.

At the end of the hearing several of the old folks present edged nearer the speaker's rostrum and pleaded for favorable committee action on his bill. One man said that he had heart trouble, could not work, his wife was being hospitalized, and he was getting $23 a month in return for which he had given the county a lien on his home.

At the window, Senator Roethlisberger said that the paramount question in legislative minds is "where are you going to get the money?" "You'll get the money," one woman yelled. "You find money for everything else," another burst out.

Car Speed Limit Bill Again Put Before Lawmakers

Green Bay Legislator Would Limit Cars to 60 Miles an Hour

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Beaten narrowly two years ago, Assemblyman William J. Sweeney of Brown county, a Democrat, will again have his bill to limit automobile speeds before the state assembly within a few days.

Sweeney proposed an hour during daylight and 50 miles at night, and he has the support of the Wisconsin Sheriff's association and other law enforcement groups.

At a hearing on Sweeney's measure recently, speed was cited as a "killer" responsible for 70 per cent of highway fatalities.

Those opposing the imposition of a speed limitation on Wisconsin motorists said that maximum limits would result in speed traps being established along the highways and that a meteorologist would have to be consulted daily by a motorist in order to determine when he could drive 50 or 60 miles per hour without interference by the law.

The sheriff's group said that the organization favored a 60 mile limit for public safety. Sweeney said that when the Wisconsin legislature abolished all open highway speed limitations some years ago members did not anticipate passenger cars would ever travel from 80 to 90 miles an hour.

He added that out of state motorists, freed of their own state's speed limits, were the fastest and most reckless drivers on Wisconsin highways.

Opposition to Sweeney's bill has come from the Wisconsin Automotive Trades association which claims that it is not speed that must be curbed, but recklessness, and that present laws cover that problem adequately.

princes, a most delicate responsibility rests in the election of a worthy successor to Pius XI as a pontiff toward whom humanity may turn its gaze as toward a searchlight which shines through tempestuous and fearful anxiety toward the common goal of peace and progress."

Cardinal Pignatelli di Belmonte, head of the college, replied to his address.

The cardinals rose and doffed red skull caps as the diplomats entered, with Von Bergen followed in order of seniority by the envoys from Peru, France, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Spain and Rumania, along with several ministers and charge d'affaires.

There were 40 cardinals at the congregation today, the largest number since the death of Pius XI last Friday. Cardinal Marchetti Selvaggiani's injured foot was improved, and it was believed he would be able to attend the conclave to name a new pope.

The sound of hammer and saw rang in the panel palace as workmen hurried their preparation of the cells, assembly hall and kitchen which will be the locked domain of cardinals during the conclave.

Engineer Camillo Rebecchini's men had at most 13 days to make ready the "city within a city." The conclave is to start not later than March 1 but it might start a day sooner, since the last of the cardinals expected likely will arrive then.

The fifth of nine funeral masses for the late pontiff, Pius XI, was sung this morning in St. Peter's.

United States Ambassador William Phillips is expected to attend mass tomorrow at the church of Sant' Andrea Della Valle when Premier Mussolini, the Italian royal family and government officials will take part in observing Pius's day of mourning for Pope Pius.

Predicting Roosevelt Choice For Court Is Futile Business

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Justice Brandeis hardly had hung up his supreme court robe for the last time when a powerful group of New Dealers formed a flying wedge around William O. Douglas, the tow-headed chairman of SEC, as their candidate for the vacancy.

Indicative of the power behind Douglas are the facts that Attorney General Murphy is enthusiastic for him and that Tommy Corcoran, who managed the campaign that placed Felix Frankfurter on the supreme court by a unanimous senate vote a few weeks ago, sent word from his hospital bed in Baltimore that Douglas was his only candidate. Even working by remote control, Tommy still is a one-man lobby to be respected in past performance means anything.

Of all activities in Washington, the most futile is guessing about Roosevelt's appointments. Sometimes, as with Frankfurter, he chooses the most logical law. Sometimes, as with Amle for ICC, he leaves you asking yourself, "How did he ever figure that one out?"

Logically, the Brandeis vacancy should go to the west. As Chief Justice Hughes once said, "Geographical considerations should not control at the expense of exceptional fitness but the confidence of the country should be maintained by selections which so far as practicable will represent all parts of the United States."

Justice Butler of Minnesota is as far west as the supreme court personnel now goes. Since Van Devanter and Sutherland retired, the mountain and Pacific coast states, with their peculiar mineral and water laws, have been unrepresented. Logically the next appointment should go west. That's a fact, not a prediction.

Douglas' Record Has Been Made in East

Douglas, now 40 years old, came with SEC in 1934 and has an excellent record of successful operation in that difficult spot. Under his chairmanship SEC and Wall street made peace. Although born in Minnesota, educated in Washington state and married in Oregon, Douglas has a professional record made largely in the east, practicing law in New York, teaching law at Columbia and Yale, and four years' work here. He looks, talks and thinks like a westerner, and Tommy Corcoran is hoping he will pass with Harvard's Roosevelt as such.

On the geographical qualification, some of the other aspirants have the edge on Douglas as most of them were not only born in the west but remained there to fatten. Senator Schwelbach of Washington state, an aggressive New Dealer mentioned as a possibility, is of the whole field, the most directly menaced by the drive for Douglas. Schwelbach and his fellow Washington senator, Homer Bone, are politically divorced, therefore Bone will be rooting for Douglas. That's the way it goes in politics.

High up on the guess list is Harold M. Stephens of Utah, now associate justice of the federal court of appeals here. He has strong senatorial and congressional support. Before Frankfurter was appointed, Governor Eccles of the federal reserve board personally intervened at the White House in behalf of Justice Stephens. However, Stephens was the candidate of Homer Cummings, who was then attorney general but isn't any more. It's harder to plug your candidate from the outside.

Candidates in West Thick As Jackrabbits

There are numerous other candidates in the west, thick as jackrabbits on a Kansas prairie, and running just as fast.

Lobbying for supreme court jobs has become highly developed and the technique is improving with continuous practice, because during the last two years Roosevelt has been making one supreme court appointment after another. Appointing none in his first four years, Roosevelt is now about to name his fourth.

The next after that will give him a clear majority of his own making. Republicans may take over the government in 1941, but if so they'll have a Roosevelt-built court hanging around their necks indefinitely. Who knows, we might see in 1942 a drive by a Republican president to enlarge the court in order to save the country from a hangover Roosevelt majority.

Lawmakers Again Face Green Bay Fishing Row

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Legislators got notice yesterday that they are once more to wade into one of the most complicated and controversial subjects known to Wisconsin legislatures, commercial fishing in Green Bay and other outlying waters.

Four northeastern Wisconsin legislators have introduced bills pertaining to commercial fishing by title only, which leaves the way open to any specific proposals later in the session. Introduction of bills by title is a subterfuge designed to controvert the Feb. 15 deadline for the presentation of new measures.

It was immediately apparent, however, what was in store, an attack by organized fishermen on the law enacted by the 1937 session at the instance of Assemblyman Frank N. Graess of Door county which places the power to regulate fishing in outlying waters in the hands of the state conservation commission.

Brandies Doctrine May Affect Labor Law When Altered

Justice Made Significant Statement on Strikes, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The "Brandies doctrine"—being the philosophy unfolded by Justice Brandeis in his many years on the supreme court of the United States—may occupy an important part in the discussions of how the Wagner Labor Relations act shall be amended.

Not perhaps at this session, but in years to come, as the problem of avoiding interruptions to production through labor disputes becomes more and more acute, the question of how the right to strike shall be qualified so as to require a period of cooling off or deliberation before there is an actual stoppage of work is bound to be given more and more consideration.

And, when that time comes, it will be found that Justice Brandeis declared on behalf of a unanimous supreme court only 13 years ago that the right to strike was neither unlimited nor absolute. Many persons whose interest in labor disputes is occasional, and many who are directly concerned with it often overlook the most significant statement ever made by Justice Brandeis on the right to strike. It was pronounced in an opinion known as "Dorchester versus Kansas" and reads in part as follows:

Right of Business—"The right to carry on business—be it called liberty or property—has value. To interfere with this right is to do just cause is unlawful. The fact that the injury was inflicted by a strike is sometimes a justification. But a strike may be illegal because of its purpose, however orderly the manner in which it is conducted."

To collect a state claim due to a fellow member of the union who was formerly employed in the business is not a permissible purpose. In the absence of a valid agreement, to interfere with this right is to do just cause is unlawful. The fact that the injury was inflicted by a strike is sometimes a justification. But a strike may be illegal because of its purpose, however orderly the manner in which it is conducted."

Applying the above principle, congress or the states could pass laws prohibiting "sit-down strikes" as being clearly unlawful. Likewise, congress could insist that a strike ordered before there is an opportunity for negotiation in a prescribed period is also unlawful. A provision to this effect occurs in the federal railway labor law, in that no strike is permitted until certain steps specified in the law have been exhausted.

But, it will be asked, can congress or the courts compel any individual to work against his will? The answer is that an individual can quit work at any time and for any cause and be free from legal action unless he has a contract governing his individual services, but, on the other hand, any individual who quits work in response to an order from a union officer or any union official who orders any individual to quit work in defiance of what the law may specify, an illegal strike will find himself in trouble with the courts and may face the penalties specified in the law.

The action of a union group in ordering men to withdraw from work in plain pursuit of an unlawful object can be forbidden by an act of congress or of the states. It is this authority which could be invoked if jurisdictional disputes should arouse public opinion. In Great Britain, illegal strikes are defined, and one type of strike which is banned is what is known as the "sympathetic strike," affecting the intention of ordering out of workers in an entirely unrelated industry.

Right to Strike—Qualification or limitation of the right to strike is discussed in a general sort of way in seeking to find remedies for interrupted production, but the whole subject will become concrete when the supreme court of the United States decides the so-called Fannestel case, which it has heard argued, but on which it has as yet not rendered an opinion. In this the National Labor Relations board has ordered a "sit-down strike" on the ground that the men had a right to strike, and that the "sit-down" was unrelated to the original "unfair labor practice" which caused the strike in the first instance. If the supreme court makes it plain that illegal circumstances and behavior cannot protect workers who engage in the exercise of an otherwise legitimate right to strike, the demand for legislation to prohibit "sit-down strikes" will disappear. If, on the other hand, the court sustains the labor board and orders the reinstatement of the workers, the question will be on the doorstep of congress for immediate action, and such laws as may be proposed no doubt would find their constitutional sanction in the Brandeis doctrine quoted above, namely, that if the "right to carry on business" has "value," then to use violence or trespass in interfering with the exercise of such a right can be declared unlawful.

Many Fish Found Dead in White Lake, Warden Says

Waupaca—George Whalen, county conservation warden, reported Tuesday that conservationists are experiencing much difficulty at White Lake. Many black bass and shiners, minnows, were found dead early Tuesday along the shores of the lake near the springs. A crew of 20 WPA workers was set to work Tuesday afternoon cutting holes through the ice, 20 by 100 feet, to allow the poisonous gases in the lake to escape. The low water of the lake which is the subject of much concern of conservationists throughout the county, is responsible for the dead fish, the warden stated.

The lake is from two to four feet deep with the exception of one channel which is, approximately eight feet in depth, and is so filled with vegetation that decays, that a thick sediment is left on the bottom of the lake. If the planning committee of the county board proceed with a project that will divert the waters of the south branch of the Little Wolf river, the new current resulting from the change will do much toward bettering conditions in the lake, as well as raise the water to its former level, from which it has been receding, it was indicated.

When the county board met for its November session, it made an appropriation of $2,500 for conservation purposes. Original plans were to have roadside parks along the highways of the county, but the interest is now so keen in the conditions of the lake that it is expected much of that appropriation will be spent in the employment of WPA engineers and the carrying out of the project. However, according to the warden, all of the conservation clubs in the county will meet March 2 with the planning committee to make final plans for the expenditure of the appropriation.

38 Students Show Positive Reaction In Tuberculin Test

Physical examinations for approximately 1200 students at Appleton High school were completed Wednesday. The clinic, which was conducted under the supervision of Miss Mary Orison, school nurse, was held in cooperation with the Appleton Medical association, the local Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association unit and the physical education department.

The regular examination included check-ups on the heart, lungs, throat and general skin condition. In addition, students were examined for hernia, posture and malnutrition. Information concerning individual students will be sent on to parents with recommendations for medical treatment if it is needed.

Three hundred and fifty seniors were given the tuberculin skin test through the cooperation of the W. A. T. A. Thirty-eight of the students tested reacted positively, according to Miss Orison. Their parents will be informed concerning the results of the test, and it is probable that a final check will be made by means of the X-ray.

More Houses Will be Built, Lumbermen Told

Milwaukee —(AP)—The Wisconsin Retail Lumbermen's association convention was told Wednesday that the 1939 new home will be better looking than ever and will give more for the money — and many will be built, at least 30 per cent more than last year.

Vincent Tutching of Washington, delivered the message. "We don't want any further government inroads in the field of low cost housing, because it can and is being provided by private industry," Tutching said. "It places an unnecessary burden on the taxpayers."

"If the lumber industry cannot turn out better houses for the money than some of the government's crackerbox houses, then it might as well concentrate on the dog house and mousetrap market."

WHEN WE GO TO WAR AGAIN

There are so many things that must be considered before America takes a step that is likely to lead it on to the battle field. And they are seldom considered.

And there are so many things to fight besides potential enemies. The hardest ones to fight are our friends. Those that at least say they are our friends, and are willing to fight and die with us.

General Hugh Johnson in his column not long ago reminded his readers of some intimate personal details concerning our last warlike venture, how we were led into it "just for our economic strength" and how we were led out of it forty billion dollars to the bad, a hundred thousand dead and how many hundreds of thousands injured and crippled we do not know. General Johnson, who was in the thick of things in 1917, says that he first suggested that we raise an army of a million men but President Wilson, in his own hand writing, disapproved the suggestion, endorsing upon the Johnson memorandum that our participation in the war did not involve an extensive army and that, at the outside, five hundred thousand men would be enough. The General then dreadsly reminds us that before the Armistice was signed we had in uniform and called to the "colors" more than six million men.

No such program was ever laid before America by France, Italy and Britain when our entering the fray was suggested. They were afraid to scare us off by revealing the tremendous burden we would have to carry.

But after the declaration of war is made, ah, that is another thing. Then our pride is up, our resolve is made, we have shaken our fist to the high heavens and pledged that we will carry on to the bitter end. So when it is shown us that only by putting every man available into uniform, by loading every factory and whipping up farmers and borrowing every dollar we can lay our hands to, will we ever win, we must do it all or stand humiliated and disgraced, a conclusion that a proud people would never willingly face.

And while we are upon the subject of our pure and highly civilized bed-fellows in democracy perhaps our people would like to know a little more of some of their operations. It must be granted at the outset that every American would prefer the French and English forms of government to those prevailing in Italy and Germany, and yet the former countries can hardly be said to be democratic in the same sense that America is.

Britain still controls the four hundred million people in India without their consent, and in spite of their bloody efforts to free themselves. And right now France is having a difficult time of it in Syria. We find that the Syrian parliament, and the principal Syrian officials, would be through with France. They do not like her hand to rule them. They have, by parliamentary action, decreed they will not cooperate with France, and orderly parades have marched the streets of important Syrian towns shouting "Down with France!" and otherwise indicating their hostility to the nation that was given a mandate over them twenty years ago. But that isn't all. Much blood has been spilled in Syria since France took it over. It was spilled because French soldiers shot Syrians who claimed they had a right to be free.

Britain is the head of the greatest empire the world has ever known. France is the head of the next greatest empire. Britain has been a relatively successful colonial administrator. France has not. But each now rule vast domains whose request for democratic institutions receive no respect. Quite likely these people who so fervently demand democracy are incapable of supporting it. Actually it requires people of high intelligence to understand democracy.

But before we enter that long precipitous descent into the hell called "war" let us look over all the important facts first, become familiar with all that may be expected of us, in fact have a very plainly composed document drawn which will enumerate our obligations, our privileges, and our responsibilities.

Mr. Roosevelt's program to do everything "short of war" should mislead no one. Going to war does not and will not turn upon "good purposes" but upon actual deeds.

PUTTING RUBBER IN THE BUDGET

Counties, cities, villages and towns, through the Wisconsin County Boards' association and the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, are expected to provide vigorous opposition to at least one feature of Governor Heil's budget bill when consideration of the measure is undertaken by the legislature.

The governor proposes granting to the three-man emergency board the power to cut all appropriations, including pension, school and highway aids, up to 25 per cent in the event the state revenue is insufficient to meet its obligations.

Counties are already committed, through action of the legislature, to the payment of aids to the aged, the blind, and dependent children. Many of them are bonded for construction of highways, having taken on these obligations with the express understanding the state was to assume, through the return to the counties of gasoline taxes, a substantial part of the cost of such construction. All of them are burdened heavily with school expenses, and rely on state aids to meet a part of them.

Having directed the counties to provide aid for the unfortunate in certain stipulated amounts; having encouraged the building of a highway system the maintenance of which is costly in the extreme; having provided for the expansion of educational facilities, it is now proposed that the state trim its share of the cost of all three when and if it becomes difficult to pay.

With almost unlimited means at its disposal for the raising of revenue, the administration would shift its responsibility to the counties and municipalities, limited strictly in their taxing powers to a levy on real property.

The state has already and too frequently been guilty of "passing the buck" to its political subdivisions in the matter of taxation. Returns to these subdivisions from income and other state taxes have not kept pace with the activities imposed upon local governments by the legislature.

If the governor must provide elasticity for his budget bill, let him put all of the stretch into other appropriations, and permit the established ratio of state and county contributions for the purposes mentioned to stand.

A DEBATING DEMOCRACY

A group of oldsters in a small town in the East are organizing a cracker barrel forum minus the crackers. They have set the minimum age limit for their members at 65, the age at which some modern thinkers and customs would require them to retire as past their usefulness.

Their plan is to gather together in a local store and discuss all problems that interest them—politics, crops, economics, business or anything else that occurs to them.

This particular plan is only one of several signs that public affairs are again to the fore in the thinking and talking of Americans. Public lectures on any current topic from foreign affairs to local matters are well patronized. The radio forums, such as Town Meeting of the Air and the Chicago University Round Table, not only attract many listeners but inspire those listeners to go on talking about the discussions after the broadcast programs are concluded.

No doubt there is a good deal of unintelligent talk in all this, and some unnecessary emotion. Even so, the trend is good. Complete lack of discussion of public affairs usually indicates indifference to them. Arguing about them, raising doubts and questions, proposing answers, and so on, are part of the democratic process.

WAR VS. WORK

Figures gathered by the International Labor Office, of which an American has recently become director, show an encouraging trend which many of us failed to note last year. The United States, in the last quarter of 1938, led all other countries in the reduction of unemployment. In the same period, more than half of the nations reporting to the labor office disclosed greater unemployment.

Great Britain, for example, despite its huge rearmament program, had a substantial drop in jobs. Munitions-making has not solved England's employment problem and probably would not solve ours. Employment is advanced by constructive industrial and commercial activity.

It is a good thing to get this matter straight. If we must arm, let it be for the single purpose of defense, with no pretense of creating jobs. War is economically destructive, and preparation for it, however necessary for other reasons, is an economic handicap.

MOTORIZED KAYAKS

The Eskimos are letting us down. They are cheerfully putting outboard motors on their kayaks. They like phonographs, radios, flashlights and canned goods instead of the simple pleasures and foods that satisfied them formerly. They have even taken up the use of spectacles, although we are not sure they have their eyes properly tested and the glasses fitted first.

Traders no longer purchase pelts from the Eskimos with bright beads and earrings, but must offer the products of industry listed above.

Perhaps we could swap with the Eskimos and go primitive ourselves as a rest from noise and swift-changing styles. We wouldn't want to do this on a year-round basis; but more and more Americans are taking to the few remaining quiet spots of the world for vacations, and leaving the gadgets of civilization behind them for a few weeks.

DALE HARRISON'S
In Old New York

New York — The strangest information that has come to my desk in weeks is vouchsafed with a straight face by Roy Moulton, Managing Director of the Hotel Piccadilly.

"Fully 45 per cent of the people planning to come to New York for the Fair this year have indicated a desire to see a New York columnist in person," shouts Mr. Moulton.

It develops that the Piccadilly has sent questionnaires to people who have written in for hotel reservations, asking what they are looking forward to seeing in New York while visiting the Fair.

This raises a big problem. If 45 per cent of the visitors want to see a living and breathing columnist, I see no reason why they should be disappointed.

Mr. Moulton did not indicate what action he would take to Give the Public What it Wants, but there are several ideas that come to mind. The best, I think, is to assign one of the platforms at the Flea Circus on 42nd Street to the business of displaying the following. Place a row of chairs on the platform—as columnists are not accustomed to standing—and have them sit there staring into space. By all means there should be a spieler who at intervals would introduce the Literary Freaks and, in a word, describe them. (I hope you caught the subtlety of the phrase "in a word").

There should be an admission charge. If a Flea Circus is worth a dime, a columnist ought to be worth a nickel.

As an added attraction, let the columnists be shown in the company of their dogs, although proximity to the Flea Circus might militate against the animal's columnist's happiness.

A more dignified display of these quaint gents would be for some public-spirited hotel man to open a salon with one "o," where the public could be received in the style to which it is accustomed. I quite realize that the fish at the aquarium are not permitted to mingle with the guests, but I see no harm in letting the columnists out of their tanks (ah, what double entendre!) for a purpose as patriotic as this.

Still another Sensational Suggestion is to Toss them into a ring at Yankee Stadium. Despite the fact that none of them is much of a physical specimen, all have unbelievable staying power and would be certain to last much longer than does the average opponent with Joe Louis. Besides, the evening wouldn't be a complete loss if popcorn and peanuts were sold.

Some one suggests coyly that they could be put on a float which then would be towed to an anchorage off Coney Island and then used for target practice by the United States fleet. Still another suggestion is that the Columnists be paraded up Fifth Avenue in open cars, but I, for one, object. There are too many loose bricks around.

Of course, what many people doubtless wish to see is a Columnist at Work. So, for that matter, would I. It would be a nice trick if they could do it.

I do not know whether Mr. Moulton intends to do anything about satisfying the curiosity of the Forty-five Per Cent, but if worst came to worst—as it most likely would—he could arrange some sort of a Wax Works exhibit. I can think of nothing more spectacular than a collection of wax, or stuffed, columnists.

It would be a charming gesture if the Columnists would put on some sort of a modest floor show—songs, tap dancing, jokes and funny sayings; but I am chagrined to report that to the best of my knowledge they have practically no entertainment talent to speak of. One of them, I believe, does a fairish job of cutting out paper dolls, and another has a talent for wiggling one ear ever so lightly. I'm afraid Mr. Moulton's Forty-five Per Cent would be terribly disappointed.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Feb. 19, 1914
Major H. E. Pomeroy was named to command the northern battalion of the Second regiment, which included the companies at Oconto, Marshfield, Marinette and Rhineland.

The council adopted an ordinance requiring householders to shovel off their sidewalks before 10 o'clock in the morning.

The campaign to raise $6,000 for the baseball team, in progress that week, had resulted in raising $3,700. The drive was to end Saturday. The League of the Kindly Tongue, organized in Appleton by Rev. W. D. March, had spread all over the country, it was said. A request for information concerning the league had been received from New York city.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Feb. 14, 1929
Seven members of a powerful Chicago hoodlum gang were herded together and shot to death in a Chicago garage by five gunmen who stood them against a wall and filled them with machine gun slugs.

A sketch, "The Old District School," was given as part of the entertainment for a get-acquainted party of the Order of Eastern Stars, attended by about 200 persons.

F. H. Doellner, general manager of Walton Leagues in America, had been engaged as speaker for the annual Walton banquet, according to Richard Sykes, president of the Appleton chapter.

Appleton High school basketball team, after defeating Kaukauna, 20 to 6, was getting ready to meet East Green Bay. Benny Rafolt would be unable to play in the Green Bay game because of illness, it was reported.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

END OF THE WORKER'S DAY

The baby at the window
Looks out upon the town.
A street car clangs a greeting,
A taxicab scoots down,
A milk truck lumbers slowly
Along a street grown dim
With threat of storm. . . The baby
Thinks this is all for him!

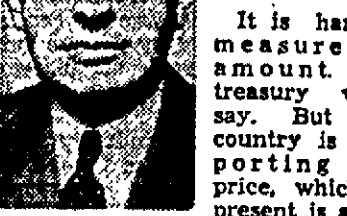

He smiles on the policeman
Who waves a mighty hand.
The cleaner's wagon passes.
And too, there is a band
Of passersby who hurry,
Cold in the wintry gloom.
Beneath the baby's window
The world is going home.

Soon from the window scampers
This happy little boy.
For somebody is coming
Who lights the hour with joy.
Life has a fine new meaning
For one adoring lad.
When up the stairs are running
The quick feet of his dad!

A Bystander
In Washington

BY FRESTON GROVER

Washington—Much overlooked for a long time is the fact that the United States has been lending aid to China and Loyalist Spain in a very concrete fashion—through the purchase of silver.

Grover

It is hard to measure the amount. The treasury won't say. But this country is supporting the price, which at present is about 43 cents an ounce for foreign silver. It once went up to nearly double that, but the treasury let it slide back.

Last year, Spain dumped its hoard on the market, a quantity estimated by Handy and Harman, New York silver brokers, at 40,000,000 ounces. Ultimately most of it came or will come to the United States at a price which, less handling charges should give Loyalist Spain about $16,000,000.

During the same year China poured out about $17,000,000 in silver coins on the world market, most of it destined for the United States. In addition came an undetermined quantity of bullion silver.

While it is true that a market could be found for this silver without United States support but the price would sag heavily. It fell as low as 25 cents an ounce in 1932. U. S. support has given both China and Spain extra money which they could use to buy war implements.

Trade Act Fight Is On
While the administration thinks it has the "cost of production" form bill licked, it is less confident about the fate of the reciprocal trade act, also under fire.

The Department of Agriculture carried its fight out into the farm belt last summer and fall. Secretary Wallace spoke a dozen times or more to large farm meetings throughout the Midwest and South. Squadrons of AAA speakers backstopped him in other places.

Now the State Department is following the same course. Especially since the British-Canadian trade pacts were signed, the speaking battalions have been in the field. Secretary Hull has spoken often. Assistant Secretary Sayre, in charge of the treaty section, has spoken more often. But the principal burden has fallen on such figures as Lynn R. Edminster, special assistant to the secretary, and lesser lights in the department. Edminster has spanned the country from Miami, Fla., to Yakima, Wash. Dairy crowds get dairy statistics, beef cattle growers hear about shoes and beef. The speeches certainly test the mettle of the listeners. Loaded with figures and trade reports, the speeches run for two hours or more.

Most of them are breakfasting before horseback rides, and take handfuls of sugar to keep their nags in good humor. . . Many senators leave notes on their doors saying "visiting hours, 10 to 12 a. m." OUR LEGACY TO THE FUTURE

THAT, SON, WAS PUT THERE BY THE NEW DEAL ADMINISTRATION. THEY CALLED IT AN INVESTMENT.

WHY, SIR, HAS THIS GREAT BURDEN ALWAYS BEEN FASTENED TO MY LEG?

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—This is probably an appropriate time to make a report on what administration Republicans outside of the executive office think of their leader's military activities in recent weeks.

Briefly said, high-ranking Republican chieftains don't like Governor Heil's seeming fondness for creating colonels on his military staff every time he attends a businessmen's luncheon or makes a speech out of town.

He now has titled in the neighborhood of 60, most of them from Milwaukee, and most of them business friends, which is far more than any other executive in the history of the state ever appointed.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

LATENT SCURVY

Popular conceptions of scurvy are rather apocryphal. Lind, a surgeon in the British navy, was the first to recognize that scurvy could be prevented or cured by orange juice and lemon juice or lime juice, and about the middle of the 18th century lime juice became a regular part of the sailor's ration. Prior to that time scurvy had been the scourge of the sea, often disabling the entire ship's crew on long voyages and many of the victims died.

When I was an interne in a large metropolitan hospital typical cases of scurvy in infants were not uncommon. The infants were fed with boiled milk modified, but we did not then know that all babies require fresh tomato or other fresh fruit or fresh vegetable juice daily to prevent scurvy.

Scurvy is most likely to occur when the baby is from seven to ten months old. The baby becomes fretful, pale and tender in the legs, so that he cries out when handled, and soon this soreness is evident in knees and ankles. The gums become purple, swollen, tender and bleed on slight irritation. Doubtless this soreness of the gums has been maltraced as "cutting teeth" in many a case of infantile scurvy. The baby is cross, sleeps poorly, loses color and weight, has little or no appetite. If the nature of the trouble is not recognized and fresh fruit or vegetable juice given, the baby becomes feverish and lies as the paralyzed. Small or large "black and blue" marks may appear which suggest to the uninitiated observer the bruises of blows. These discolorations have led to many unjust charges of cruelty to patients in hospitals.

In adults the early signs of scurvy are listlessness, lack of energy, mental and physical failure of appetite irritability, and later loss of weight, weakness and pallor. The ankles and sometimes other joints become tender and swollen. Hemorrhages under the skin, producing "black and blue" marks, ulcerations and hemorrhages appear in the mucous membranes of the mouth and other surfaces. The gums are swollen and bleed easily; the teeth become loose and may fall out. Headache and other nervous symptoms occur.

Latent scurvy is more difficult to recognize. According to Lippincott's "Scurvy, Past and Present," suspicion of latent scurvy should be awakened by failure to grow and develop properly, slight pallor, poor appetite and rapid pulse and rapid respiration. Insufficient vitamin C is a fruitful source of dental disease and malformation.

Tomato or tomato juice, fresh or factory canned, is at least equal to orange and orange juice in vitamin C content and the prevention and cure of scurvy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Too! Too!

My daughter, almost four years old, swallowed a small round whistle, a little larger than a dime, two weeks ago. At least I believe she did . . . but have heard nothing from it. . . should we have X-ray?

Answer—If she swallowed the object it probably passed within 48 hours. In any event it would be extremely unlikely to give any trouble. Here it may be well to repeat the directions for mothers to follow in case a child swallows a foreign body:

1. Give no physic and no emetic.
2. Have the child eat a good sized bowl of mixed vegetables—cabbage, green beans, celery, carrots, potato, turnip, etc. These vegetables should be cooked only a few minutes. They should be swallowed without mastication, of course all chopped fine. Wash down with water. (Dr. George W. Boole)
3. If the child is too young to eat such vegetables, feed the child all the ripe bananas he will take for 24 hours. If no bananas are available, then all the mashed potato the child will take. The purpose is to provide sufficient bulk of residue to coat over and promote passage of the foreign body thru the alimentary canal.

Seldes Volume on Press Among New Books Released at Library

New London—A critical investigation of American newspapers and an unsparing analysis of the large owners, their personalities, policies, and practices are revealed in the book, "Lords of the Press," by George Seldes, himself a famous newspaperman and war correspondent author of "You Can't Print That." The book is one of the most important of 30 new books released for circulation at the New London Public Library today.

Heading the new adult fiction offered are "The Sisters" by Myron Brinig, "Dynasty of Death" by Taylor Caldwell, "Make Way for Tomorrow" by Josephine Lawrence, "The Boomerang Clue" by Agatha Christie. Westerns include "Flint Spears" by Will James, "The Ghost Road" by George O'Brien, "Wolf's Cattle" by Dane Coolidge.

In a variety of adult non-fiction are the biography "Young Loneliness" by Lawrence Thompson; "America Now," the history of United States civilization today by Harold E. Stearns; "Astronomy for the Millions" by Professor Van Den Bergh; "Town Meeting Comes to Town," a description of the Town meeting of the Air programs by Professor and Mrs. Harry A. Overstreet.

In the drama and literature field are "Players at Work," a story of how actors act by eight leading stars of stage and screen; "Typical Plays," a collection of short pieces by Webber and Webster. Two books of poems are "A Further Range," Pulitzer prize winner by Robert Frost, and "A New Anthology of Modern Poetry," edited by Selden Rodman.

All but one of the books for junior readers are in the non-fiction or educational class, such as "Medical Occupations for Boys" by Lee M. Klinefelter, "The Wonders of Science," "The Modern Handbook for Girls," "The Home Economics Omnibus." The only adventure story is "Hidden Island" by Anthony Rutherford.

"Story Parade," a large book of modern stories, leads the new material for children. Added to the shelves are "Wee Bright O'Toole," "The Dutch Twins and Little Brother," "Folk Tales Retold," "Samba and the Twins," "Tom and Ann," "Here and There," "At Work in the Woods," "Lob Lie-by-the-Fire."

An innovation in the children's department at the library is a "clean shelf" collection of the best new books which are reserved solely for teachers and parents to read to the children. The books are so arranged to prevent their becoming

University Expert Tells Fruit Growers About Orchard Care

New London—New plantings and a change in fruit tree varieties were recommended to fruit growers of this region at a meeting at the city hall council chambers yesterday afternoon. About 50 were present. C. L. Kuehner, fruit specialist for the University of Wisconsin at Madison, exhibited motion pictures showing the planting, pruning and general care of apple, plum, pear and crab apple trees.

Most present orchards and groves were planted several generations ago and have become nearly exhausted, Kuehner declared. There is more to raising fruit than just planting trees, he cautioned, and advised careful and regular spraying of trees. Berry growing was not discussed.

Another meeting will be held on the same topic at Washington High school on March 1, Kuehner announced. He was assisted at the meeting yesterday by E. H. Quick, Waupaca county agricultural agent.

Institute Research Associate Tells University Women About Chemistry of Synthetic Fabrics

HOW the first commercially used rayon, which came on the market in the '90s, was made of nitro-cellulose and therefore easily inflammable—under some conditions even highly explosive—how spun rayon differs from ordinary rayon and how man has patterned his process of making synthetic fibers after the process used by the silk worm in his manufacture of natural silk were explained by Dr. Emil Heuser, research associate and instructor in cellulose chemistry, in a lecture on "Synthetic Fibers" Wednesday night at Roosevelt Junior High school.

The lecture was sponsored by the Recent Graduates division of the Appleton branch of the American Association of University Women, with members of the senior division as guests.

Illustrating his remarks with pictures and fabrics and an experiment in which a filament of rayon was made before their eyes, Dr.

Heuser explained to the women the difference between the different kinds of rayon.

Viscose Best Known

The best known of all the rayons is viscose rayon, as 85 per cent of all rayon manufactured is made by the viscose process, he said. First made in 1910, it uses cheaper chemicals and cheaper wood pulp than, for instance, the finer and stronger Bemberg rayon which is made with a different solution.

A remarkable step forward in the manufacture of cellulose textiles, Dr. Heuser continued, was the making of staple fibers, commonly known as spun rayon.

The process begins the same as that used in the manufacture of ordinary rayon, except that when the thread is made it is combined into a ribbon which goes through a cutting machine and comes out in short fibers. These are taken to another machine and are spun just as cotton fibers are into thread and yarn. Said to be as warm as wool and double the strength of wool, most of this staple is produced in Germany, the speaker said.

Other Fibers Used

Cellulose, however, is not the only fiber from which synthetic fabrics are made, he pointed out. Protein fibers, which have been taken from gelatin, casein and soy beans, have begun to play an important part in the textile industry.

Until the invention of Italian wool a few years ago in Italy, attempts to use casein had been unsuccessful. An Italian chemist, however, made of it an excellent synthetic wool, which has three desirable attributes that real wool does not have—it does not irritate the human skin, it is resistant to moths and it does not shrink.

But milk and milk products, from which casein is obtained, are important foodstuffs, and therefore the cheaper soy beans, less valuable to human nourishment, are the hope of those who seek to make textiles out of proteins. The soy bean is especially rich in that element.

The recent perfection in the Du Pont laboratories of nylon, a new fabric made of synthetic materials as well as by a synthetic process, was hailed by Dr. Heuser as the beginning of a new epoch in the manufacture of synthetic fibers. It is still too expensive for general use, but the day is not far distant, he prophesied, when it will compete actively with real silk.

He declared that the last 10 or 12 years have taken a heavy toll on the membership because of the depression and urged all present to try to increase the membership.

In Washington he declared many of the statesmen are prominent Odd Fellows. He told of the need for fraternalism in foreign countries where secret orders have been abolished by the dictators and declared that the people should be thankful for the opportunity to meet as they wish.

It is now colder over the Lake region and all the eastern sections of the country, but temperatures are rising rapidly over the upper Mississippi valley and northern plains states. A minimum of -24 degrees was recorded this morning at Wausau.

Some snow is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with rising temperature.

Name Committee For Brotherhood Week Observance

Rev. Carl F. Zietlow Chairman for Events March 14-15

Neenah—The Rev. Carl F. Zietlow, pastor of First Evangelical church, as chairman, assisted by the Rev. Joseph A. Glueckstein, pastor of St. Margaret Mary Catholic church, Neenah, and Rabbi Ralph DeKoven of the Jewish Synagogue, Appleton, head the committee which is arranging a program in observance of Brotherhood week of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, to be held in Neenah March 14 and 15.

Feb. 19-28 has been set aside as the annual observance of Brotherhood week and will be observed in about 2,000 communities throughout the United States together with special radio broadcasts. Some of the ministers in Neenah and Menasha will observe the week with special Brotherhood day sermons Sunday. The Twin City Y. W. C. A. will devote its Monday afternoon broadcast period to this theme.

The theme of the week this year will be "Democracy and Freedom" with the week to be devoted to "a new study of the bill of rights and its implications for a free America."

The committee in charge of arrangements includes representatives from various service clubs and the clergy of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths.

Mass Meeting

A public mass meeting is planned for Tuesday evening, March 14, at which a Protestant minister, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi will speak. The three men will address assemblies at the Neenah and Menasha High schools also. Pending details, however, each of these efforts has been directed toward the problems in a single field; toward the protection of the public interest in the power of flowing water in the nation's rivers; toward the relief of economic and human distress in the mining of coal; or toward the reduction of demoralizing and wasteful practices and conditions in the industries producing oil and natural gas. It is time now to take a larger view; to recognize—more fully than has been possible or perhaps needful in the past—that each of our great natural resources of energy affects the others.

It is difficult to see the long run to envisage a national coal policy, or a national petroleum policy, or a national water-power policy without also in time a national policy directed toward all of these energy producers—that is, a national energy resources policy. Such a broader and integrated policy toward the problems of coal, petroleum, natural gas, and water-power cannot be evolved overnight.

Planning Necessary

The widening interest and responsibility on the part of the federal government for the conservation and wise use of the nation's energy resources raises many perplexing questions of policy determination. Clearly, there must be adequate and continuing planning and provision for studies which will reflect the best technical experience available, as well as full consideration for both regional and group interests.

Home Nursing Class Has Third Lesson At Marion Gathering

Marion—The third lesson in home nursing was given in the dining room of the village hall Tuesday afternoon with 22 women present. The county nurse, Miss Estelle Jung, was in charge. Assisting her was Dr. Allen Filex, one of the county health committee members, who showed several films on tuberculosis and syphilis. The local Red Cross has bought 24 books on "Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick" and they were given to the women. They will be used all during this series of lessons. After the course is finished, all those passing the required tests will receive a certificate for this work. The Rotary club held its weekly luncheon at the village hall Tuesday noon. Donald Meyer, the first Marion resident to receive a commission in the army since the World war in the reserve officers, gave a summary on what national defense means to our country. He also gave illustrations showing the comparisons of the standing armies in the different nations.

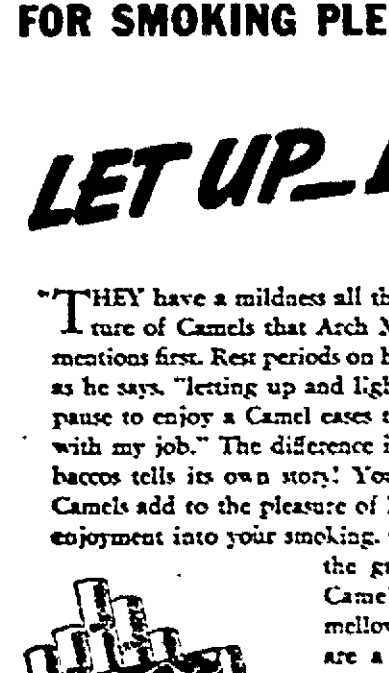

A messenger delivered valentines to all the Rotarians.

The high school debate teams in charge of the coach, Miss Edna Schmidt, went to Stevens Point Saturday, where they entered the debate tournament with 27 other schools throughout the state. The plan of classifying the schools according to enrollment, was changed so Marion had to compete with much larger ones. They came through with two wins and four losses. Those from here who participated were: Negative—Eddie Asenbrenner, Tom Rogers and Annette Fox; affirmative—Doris Buhr, Lois Pockat and Billy Olson.

Any Substitute for American Press Wouldn't be as Good

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—So, after all this discussion, we come to the question, "What kind of press would you substitute for the privately owned American press?"

Papers operated by political parties would not be objective or impartial. We know that from experience and from the nature of political speeches. Politicians never give the opposition credit for any virtues, achievements or good intentions or admit faults or errors in their own ranks. That is just the way of politics. It is like "lawing" in the court. A lawyer in court doesn't call the attention of the jury to the merits of the other side or flaws in his own arguments.

So partisan political papers might have good funnies and bridge lessons and all such package goods, but they would be one-sided in both news and editorial opinion. They would be much more one-sided than the most prejudiced of the privately owned papers, because the worst of these sheets make an occasional stab at being fair, and the worst are very few in number.

Or suppose we had a censored and state-subsidized press such as the communists and "axis" nations have and propose for this country. The communist and "axis" methods are alike, and anyone who thinks the American papers are unfair in their treatment of news and their editorial interpretation ought to dig into a pile of that kind of press. They shoot stands in France and used to be seen in Spain and Prague. In Prague commercial press were rented impartially, and the same press that kicked out a red paper one hour might tear off a run for a nazi sheet as the next job. The French press is just terrible; it is notoriously corrupt.

Plan Needed for Energy Program, Roosevelt Says

between the increased use of energy and the general economic development of the country.

Need "Larger View"

In the past the federal government and the states have undertaken various measures to conserve our heritage in these resources. In general, however, each of these efforts has been directed toward the problems in a single field; toward the protection of the public interest in the power of flowing water in the nation's rivers; toward the relief of economic and human distress in the mining of coal; or toward the reduction of demoralizing and wasteful practices and conditions in the industries producing oil and natural gas. It is time now to take a larger view; to recognize—more fully than has been possible or perhaps needful in the past—that each of our great natural resources of energy affects the others.

It is difficult to see the long run to envisage a national coal policy, or a national petroleum policy, or a national water-power policy without also in time a national policy directed toward all of these energy producers—that is, a national energy resources policy. Such a broader and integrated policy toward the problems of coal, petroleum, natural gas, and water-power cannot be evolved overnight.

Planning Necessary

The widening interest and responsibility on the part of the federal government for the conservation and wise use of the nation's energy resources raises many perplexing questions of policy determination. Clearly, there must be adequate and continuing planning and provision for studies which will reflect the best technical experience available, as well as full consideration for both regional and group interests.

Some federal legislation affecting the energy resources will extend at the end of this fiscal year, other legislation at the end of a few more years. This report sets forth a useful frame of reference for legislative programs affecting these resources and illustrates another approach to the systematic husbandry of our natural resources. Specific recommendations are advanced for solution of the most pressing problems.

In order to facilitate its use by the congress, I recommend that this report be printed together with the supporting staff reports and illustrations, when these are available in final form, in conformity with similar reports prepared by the national resources committee.

Participants were: Negative—Eddie Asenbrenner, Tom Rogers and Annette Fox; affirmative—Doris Buhr, Lois Pockat and Billy Olson.

Be A Careful Driver

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

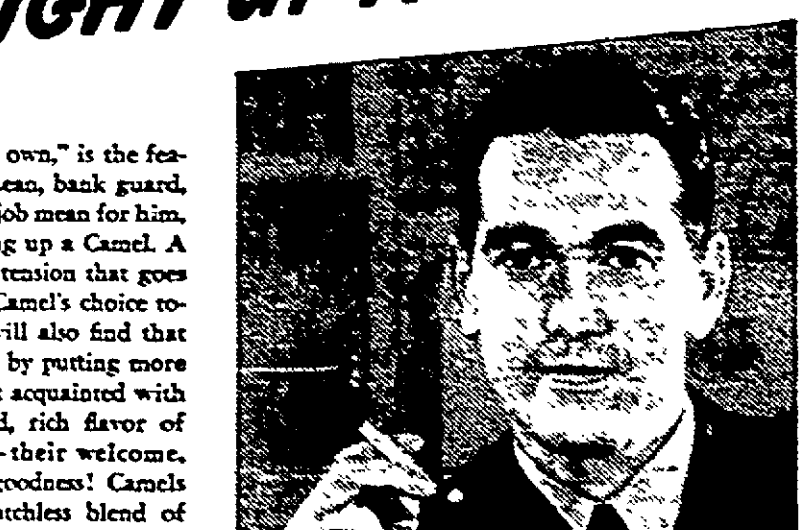

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble is kidney trouble. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or sore passages with smarting and burning above there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, due to faulty kidney action, can be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney troubles each out of your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Make your own choice... long, dreary growling from the starter, without a peep out of your ice-cold motor... or a quick roar of power the instant you touch the starting button.

The gas you use can make this difference!

Phillips 66 is "hot" gas. It contains nearly four times as much natural high test gasoline as the average motor fuel. It gets your motor going... and gets it going fast... even when icy weather is making front page news.

County Transient Problem Studied At Board Meeting

Consider Proposals to End Hospitable Lodging, Meal Practice

Possible steps to discourage transients from seeking free lodging and breakfast at the county jail were discussed by supervisors at this morning's session at the courthouse but no action on the problem was taken.

The discussion arose when a bill was entered for $1,033.35 for meals given at the county jail since last November. Supervisor Thomas Long, Appleton, said he agreed with a statement made yesterday by Supervisor Aaron Zerbel, Appleton, that it might be advisable to have the matter investigated. Supervisor Zerbel said some transients sentenced to the detention camp wanted to return because they were given a good bed and food.

Several supervisors felt that the 25 cents allowed for a transient's breakfast is too high and that it ought to be reduced to 15 cents. Supervisors Zerbel and Mike Jacobs, Appleton, suggested that transients given lodging be made to work for breakfast. Jacobs said that the building and grounds and airport committees should meet and set up a work program at the airport and other county property for transients to discourage them from stopping in this vicinity.

Supervisor Lloyd Lang, Kimberly, said that two transients given lodging at the Kimberly village hall this week refused breakfast when they were told they would have to work for it.

Discusses WPA
Mark Muth, district WPA director, spoke briefly on the WPA work in the county. He said the farm-to-market road project has sufficient funds to carry on work until June 1 and said the roads on which the stone has been placed are in a most satisfactory condition.

A change is to be made in the WPA program shortly, he said, whereby persons on a small budget will be removed from projects and replaced by persons with large budgets. He explained that persons with small budgets are those needing relief amounting to about $10 per month while the large budget bracket includes those needing about $40. It is cheaper to keep persons in the low budget class on the relief roll, he explained. Replacements will be made from men in the same towns where those are removed, he added.

A proposal to send Jack Frenzel, county traffic officer, to the national police academy of the federal bureau of investigation for three months next year was referred back to the highway committee with instructions to act favorably or unfavorably on it by Friday. The committee in a report recommended the matter be laid over to the May session to give the committee an opportunity to discuss the proposal with the Outagamie Safety council.

Defer Action
Action on petitions to have old Highway 41 and 44 miles of road in the town of Buchanan added to the county trunk system was deferred until the state legislature acts on a bill to allow the county the aid paid to towns on such roads. The highway committee was authorized to purchase a v-type plow for a power grader.

The board voted to pay 4-H club leaders 3 cents per mile when they attend the county 4-H leaders training schools, the total not to exceed $100.

Resignations of Stephen M. Peeters from the mediation board and Frank R. Appleton from the farm-to-market committee were accepted.

The board accepted a report of the resolutions committee which recommended that the supervisors concur in resolutions of various other counties opposing reenactment of the mediation board law, non-partisan election of county officials and securing of additional funds from state gas tax and car license fees and disapproving a resolution of the Shawano county supervisors on the legalization of gambling devices.

A number of routine matters were disposed of and preparations made for adjournment tomorrow morning.

Snow flurries will accompany the mercury's ascent, the Milwaukee bureau predicted today. The thermometer soared 22 degrees in four and a half hours today in Appleton, climbing up to 18 above by 12:30 this afternoon.

Upper Michigan also shivered under a severe cold wave, with unofficial temperatures in the Iron River region ranging from 25 to 32 below zero. Wausau reported a minimum of -24. Other readings included Park Falls -22, Superior -24, La Crosse and Green Bay -2.

Public Service Commission Wants Small Phone Concerns Exempted From Pay-Hour Act

Madison—The public service commission announced today it has asked the federal administration to exempt Wisconsin telephone exchanges with less than 1,000 urban customers from the wages and hours act.

The commission sent a telegram to the department in Washington, D. C., yesterday and followed it up with an airmail letter giving in detail its reasons for the request. A commission statement pointed out that all Wisconsin exchanges already are subject to the wage and hour regulations of the state industrial commission.

Staff investigation indicated, the commission said, that if the wages and hours provided in the federal act were applied many farmer telephone companies would be wiped out, rates in many cases would have to be doubled, there would be a large reduction in use of telephone service particularly in smaller communities and rural areas, and many telephone operators might be thrown out of work by substitution of dial or other automatic service and through smaller exchanges going out of business.

Service Curtailed

"Rural telephone service has been seriously curtailed during the depression and has failed to recover the number of customers connected at the peak in 1929. Nearly 35 per cent of the 1929 customers were disconnected in 1934. At the end of 1937 there was still 25 per cent disconnected."

"In the case of one company the first year's requirements under the act would necessitate a 47 per cent increase in local service rates. The seventh year's requirements would require a 97 per cent increase."

"Our experience has been that rural subscribers will not retain telephone service except at very low rates relative to urban rates and would not be willing to pay the rates necessary to meet the provisions of the act."

Temporary Rate Cuts

The commission declared that with its encouragement more than 100 Wisconsin companies made temporary rate reductions during depression years and that only about one third of them have restored previous higher rates. It added:

"Recently the commission has received an increased number of applications for higher telephone rates primarily by companies with smaller exchanges in which urban-rural telephone connection is of predominant importance. Many of these applications have recited the prospective requirements of the wages and hours act as partly responsible and some have been accompanied by a request for authority to install dial switchboards."

Less than 100 of the 750 telephone companies in the state would come under the wages and hours act if the exemption is granted. The exchanges having more than 1,000 urban customers are owned principally by Wisconsin Telephone company, Commonwealth Telephone company, and the La Crosse Telephone corporation.

These companies, the commission said, would not be particularly affected by the federal act since present requirements of the state industrial commission for larger exchanges approximate those in the federal law. Women operators in smaller communities are principally affected by the federal act, the commission said.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Clintonville at West DePere.
Kaukauna at Shawano.
New London at Menasha.
Neenah at St. Mary's, Menasha.
(non-conference.)

K NOWING that it can be done, Kaukauna will invade Shawano Friday night with an eye to knocking off the Indians to better entrench itself in third place and at the same time do a good deed for the Neenah squad by dislodging the Shawano team from a first place tie in Northeastern Wisconsin conference standings. Neenah walloped Shawano in a post-season tilt Tuesday evening and will be tangling with St. Mary's at Menasha in a non-conference game. New London will battle at Menasha in another feature tilt while Clintonville will travel to West DePere.

SEEK FIRST VICTORY
Clintonville—After a helpful 10-day layoff, Coach Art Johnson, Clintonville high school basketball coach, is having his squad to the limit in tilts today and tomorrow. Like the Clints' first conference victory in years when they travel to West DePere Friday night, the Clints have been absent from conference play for two weeks out during that time tangled with the Marlon Purgolds, the defending Class C champs of the state, in a non-conference game losing out in the end 25 to 26 but not until two overtimes were played and two rounds of free throws were shot at each team. This was the second time the Clintonville Trucks played the Purgolds this season and in their first encounter Marlon had easy going winning 40 to 13.

In a previous game with the West DePere Black Panthers, Clints, far from the ball club that they now are, held the Panthers to a 17 to 12 count, playing even half after the first quarter when they were behind eight points.

West has only two conference victories to its credit. Clintonville is pinning its hopes on Jack Martin, diminutive guard, whose duty it will be to check Leo Van Sistine, high scoring forward for the Panthers. Martin has had some tough time to guard this season and so far has done a good job of it in addition to adding a good share of points.

Georling Leads
So far this season the Clints have been outscored almost two to one by conference opponents, the opponents gathering up 296 points in nine games to the Clints 145. Ozzie Georling, senior center, leads the scoring parade for the Trucks with 18 field goals and 12 free throws for a total of 48 points or an average of almost 5.3 points a game. Jack Martin, the only other senior on the first five, is second in rank with 39 points and 12 free throws and 6 gift shots. Following Martin is Captain Jim Billmeyer, junior forward, who has 10 baskets and 6 free throws to his credit for 26 markers. Next in line is Herby Huffman, another junior forward who has collected 21 points on 9 field goals and 3 free throws.

FEAR LETDOWN
Neenah—An elated Neenah High school quintet, holding a share of first places in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference, will face a strong Menasha St. Mary five Friday night in the St. Mary gymnasium.

The Red Rockets Tuesday night climbed into a deadlock for the night when they routed Shawano, defeating champions, 27 to 13. Besides averting an earlier defeat by the Indians the Rockets gave Shawano its first loss this season.

The Rockets will be handicapped somewhat Friday night, for they underwent a strenuous session Tuesday. They set a pace too fast for high school competition at the outset of the fracas and kept it up throughout the contest. Neenah was an inspired team in the Shawano game and Coach Ole Jorgensen who undoubtedly was the happiest coach in this district the night of the victory will have a hard time averting a letdown.

All-Stars Nose Out Sheboygan, 28 to 25

Sheboygan—LeRoy Edwards' sharpshooting aided the Oshkosh All-Stars to a 28 to 25 victory over the Sheboygan Redskins in a National Professional Basketball league game here last night. After a slow start, Edwards got the range and piled up 14 points—half the Oshkosh total.

It was the third Oshkosh victory this season over the Redskins.

Zephyr Cagers to Compete in Ninth St. Norbert Meet

Eight Teams to Participate in Tournament Opening March 5

MENASHA—St. Mary High school cagers will compete in the ninth annual St. Norbert college invitational high school basketball tournament which will be held on March 5, 6 and 7 in the college gymnasium, according to the Rev. T. G. Fox, college athletic director.

Eight teams, five of them from the Fox River Valley Catholic conference, will compete in the double elimination meet, which also will include a consolation round. Competing squads will be limited to eight players.

Teams outside the Fox River conference which will compete are St. Stanislaus of Milwaukee, defending champion; Edgewood of Madison, and Lourdes of Marinette, which replaces St. Patrick of Eau Claire, winner of the consolation title last year.

Finished Second
The Zephyrs finished in second place at the tournament last year, losing in the final round to the sharp-shooting St. Stanislaus squad. The Milwaukee team is in a tie or second place in its conference this year. Their attack is headed by Mike Swieczak, high scoring center, who leads the conference scorers with 64 points.

Other high scorers on the St. Stan team are Jeka, forward, sixth in conference scoring with 49 points; Gasiewicz, guard with 31 points and Kielma, guard with 25 points. Swieczak has scored 24 field goals and 16 free throws in seven games. The St. Stan team leads the league in scoring with 191 points while their defense has allowed 179 points.

The Zephyrs also have a chance to be invited to the national Catholic high school basketball tournament at Chicago. The invitation will depend on how fine conference standing as well as the showing made in the St. Norbert tournament. A playoff with the winner of the Catholic conference in Milwaukee may be played to determine the state entrant in the national tourney.

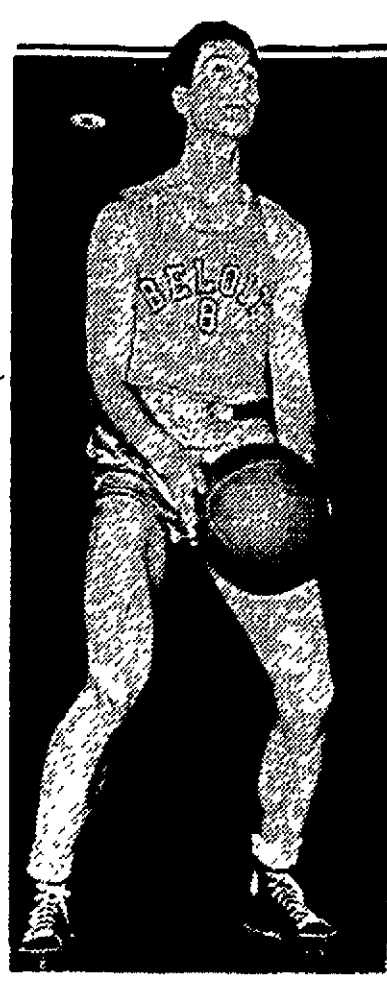

Knox Cager Tops Midwest Scoring

Merle Minks Moves Into First Place With Total of 71 Points

Merle Minks of Knox has taken over the lead in individual scoring in the Midwest conference basketball race. The Siwash co-captain moved to the top from sixth place. He has a total of 71 points gained on 30 field goals and 11 free throws. Only three points behind in second, and in a better position, stands Oscar Olson of Carleton, who is continuing the average of nearly 14 points per game that he set up last year.

With two less games played the Carleton leader looks the most powerful among the first four, who are Minks with 71, Olson and Howard Schneider of Cornell with 68, and Dudley Plunkett of Monmouth, last year's winner, with 67. Stirling Smith of Beloit stands fifth with 64 points in only six games. Rippon, though standing third in the race has spread its scoring so that only one man, Dave Bollet, is included in the first thirteen.

BELOIT MAINSTAY

Bob Zimonick, above, is one of the reasons why Beloit has rolled along with comparative success in Midwest conference circles this season. Zimonick is a guard. Beloit has a 500 percentage in conference standings and invades Alexander gymnasium for a battle Saturday night with the Lawrence college quint.

Lawrence Cagers Face Beloit Five

Silver Smith, Sparkling Sophomore Forward, Stars for Invaders

LAWRENCE college's down-trodden Vikings will attempt to stem the tide of defeat once more Saturday night when they meet the Blue Devils of Beloit at Alexander gymnasium. After losing four straight conference games, the boys would rather like to break into the win column once more, and there is no one whom they could enjoy beating as much as Beloit.

Silver Smith, sparkling sophomore forward, is the bright spot in the hopes of the Gold this year. He and Joe Tamulis, veteran center, who looked too good for the Vikings up here last year, account for most of the Beloit scoring.

Both men have been averaging close to 10 points a game. Tamulis, the big pivot man, is a classy ball handler, and a big help around the backboards. Besides these two, there will be Dutch Fagan and Fred Hoegberg at the guards, and big Roy Campbell at the other forward. Also likely to see action will be Bob Zimonick, husky guard, and Jack Griffith, sophomore football star.

Schuess Is Sick
The Vikings will not appear at their full strength, for Charlie Schuess, veteran forward who started last game, is in the infirmary with the flu; and George Bennett, reserve forward and center, is still suffering the effects of the same disease.

Norm Faleide, whose position in the individual scoring roll was considerably boosted by last week's game with Cornell, will pair with Bueising at the guards again. Bueising's consistent play at the guard position has been the brightest light of this somewhat dark year. The pivot post is still a question, but it is likely that Bill Masterson will get the nod over Art Schade. Jackson and Cape will probably start at forwards. Another possibility is that Masterson may move to forward and leave Shade at center.

The Vikings hold down seventh place in the standings now, while Beloit is in the fifth slot with a 500 percentage.

BELOIT MATMEN WIN

Beloit—The Beloit college wrestling squad trimmed Carroll 37 to 0 here last night in the first inter-collegiate mat meet in Carroll's history.

HARD PULLS NOTHING NEW
Philadelphia—Doc Prethro, new manager of the Phillies, is a practicing dentist. In addition he is the owner of a 1,000-acre cotton plantation near Memphis.

John Buckstaff Wins Stuart Iceboat Cup

Detroit—John Buckstaff of Oshkosh, Wis., won the Stuart iceboating trophy yesterday when his debutante, despite an accident in the last lap, finished ahead of John Lodge's Deuce III in the fifth and final race of the trophy series.

The forward strut of Debutante parted as the iceboat headed into the final half-mile and the craft had to be towed ashore after the finish. The five races of 20 laps over a half-mile windward-leeward course, were sailed on Lake St. Clair, Lodge, of Detroit won the first two, but Buckstaff swept the next three.

Record Crowd to See U. W. Boxers Begin '39 Season

Badgers Strive to Maintain Undefeated Record Against Loyola

MADISON—The University of Wisconsin boxing team will be striving to keep unbroken its chain of victories tomorrow night when it meets Loyola of the south in the first intercollegiate meet of the season. Wisconsin has never been beaten on the fieldhouse canvas, and was undefeated in seven matches last year.

Coach Johnny Walsh, beginning his sixth year as head man of the Wisconsin mitt swingers, will have a hard hitting club again this year and it may outshine the 1938 outfit.

A record first nighter crowd is expected to jam the fieldhouse, Coach Tad Gormley's "wolf pack" is far and away the finest opening attraction of any Badger fight season. The visitors use the same offensive maneuvers as do Walsh's club. They come out swinging and never let up until one man drops. They held Clemson, Southern conference champions to a 4-4 draw in the Sugar bowl sports carnival last December.

Southpaws
Art Walsh, of Janesville, co-captain will get the call in the 120 pound division and is facing one of Loyola's best—Sewell Whitner. Both men are southpaws. Charles Martinec will carry the Badger colors in the 127 pound class against Francis Walsh with Gene Ranking stepping into the 135 pound bracket, against William Kelly of the visitors.

Omar Crocker, 145 pounder, is heralded as the hardest puncher on the Wisconsin squad and will be on hand to meet Loyola's welterweight, Ray Condon. Woody Swancutt will meet the southern school's most polished product, Eddie Harvey in the 155 pound battle.

Ray Kramer, who has been improving with every practice drill, will swap punches with another of the better Loyola men, Bill Klaus, at 165 pounds. Klaus, a senior, has earned the nickname, "Westwego windmill" because of the peculiar style he uses. He has been undefeated since the early 1937-38 season.

Truman Torgerson, smiling 175 pounder on the Walsh squad meets his scale at 188 pounds, will have a battle on his hands with Paul McDonald, 6 foot 8 inch visiting heavyweight. McDonald, who scales 220 pounds, went to the finals of the national collegiate tourney in 1938.

Johnny Behr, of Chicago, will be the referee.

Patty Berg Plays Hero Role as Pair Gains Semi-Finals

Palm Beach, Fla.—The spotlight was on red-haired Patty Berg, national women's golf champion, today as play in the Everglades mixed foursome tournament reached the semi-finals.

The Minneapolis miss' recoveries yesterday played a big part in the one up victory which she and Josephine Macdonald of Omaha, Neb., scored over Ernestine Schell of Chicago and Dan Cravens of Franklin, Ind.

Round of four pairings sent them against Jane Cothran and John Cushman, both of Greenville, S. C. In the other semi-finals, Betty James of San Antonio, Texas, and Paul Cushman of Greenville matched strokes with Mrs. William Hock-

BEAR CREEK JOURNEYS TO WRIGHTSTOWN

Bear Creek High school cagers will travel to Wrightstown Friday evening for a Little Nine conference tilt and will entertain the Freedom squad Tuesday evening, Feb. 21, with the hope of breaking even this season.

Merchants and Elm Tree cagers will tangle in the feature tilt with the Bakers expected to avenge their only defeat of the season. A win for the Merchants, however, would bring them a step nearer first place and they're not overlooking that fact.

Y. M. C. A. and Town Taxi meet in the nighttime in what is hoped to be one of the fastest games on the card. The squads are tied in league standings and will be looking for a chance to improve their rating.

JOE REYNEBEAU smashed a 249 game and Robert Lesselyong a 249 game series for the top marks in the Industrial bowling league last night at Arcade alleys.

Reynebeau bowled another 204 and followed with a 634 series, but his league-leading Wadhams Oil team dropped two games to Coated Paper. The Wadhams team had an edge of 115 pins in the total, but lost the match. Gossen and Kranhold each turned in a 206 game for the losers. Heinrick cracked 213, 200, and 558 and Fischer 210 for the Coated team.

All five Machine company bowlers blew in the 10th frame of the first game and the Power company won by one pin, then went on to take the next game and the match. Mike Sakallaris cracked 232, 200, and 612 and Zimmerman 201 for the Power squad, which chalked high team game of 1,007. For the Machine team, Wheeler hit 235 and 497. Ray Crane slammed two games of 213 and a 617 series, F. Herb 234, and D. Lorenz 205 as Woolen Mills won two from Atlas Printers. For the losers, Arnold Meyers smashed 233, 203, and 619 and Zapp 209. Cotton rolled 227 and 566 as Pond Sport swept a match with Montgomery Ward. Jay Bushey's 487 series was highest in the losers' column.

P-C Off Bottom
The Post-Crescent took one step up from the cellar by sweeping a match with Al's Bar. Irvin Weiss banged 210 and 551 while Eddie Eternard "thundered" a 128 game and 483 series for the Post-Crescent team. Bliesman cracked 510 for the losing five.

Fumal topped 220 and Elmer Reetz 201 and 572 as Tuttle Cubs capped down the fading Schlafli team three straight. Below turned in 515 for the losers.
Dandy Rollers slipped to last place in the league, losing two games to Johnson Shoes, led by Lesselyong who tied together games of 233, 209, and 225 in reaching his high series of 667, and Gresens who had 212. Clem Kitzinger's 506 series was the best in the Dandy lineup.
Lyle VanderVelden rolled 204 and 607 and O. Kranzsch 202 as Atlas Embossers won two from Fox River. Star Bauman cracked 201 and 560 for Fox River.

Willard Still Is Bewildered Stooze for Manassa Mauler

BY GAYLE TALBOT
IAMI BEACH, FLA., (AP)—Twenty years after Toledo, poor Jess Willard still is a bewildered stooze for Jack Dempsey. The only difference now is that Jack is paying great, lumbering Jess well to play the buffoon instead of cutting him to ribbons with murderous fists.

There have been few stranger associations than the present one between the two former heavyweight champs. Big Jess, down on his luck and tremendously fat, was brought here by the successful Dempsey to act as host, or something, of the bar room in his hotel on Miami Beach.

Noble Gesture
It was and still is a fine gesture on Dempsey's part, for his bar room needed such a host about as urgently as it needed steam heat, which is to say not at all. But there

W. Plamann razed the pins for a 601 series and the Rev. F. C. Reuter cracked a 259 game to set the pace in the Lutheran Brotherhood bowling league last night at Elks alleys. Checker Lunch tured in top game of 981 and Laird and Plamann best total, 2,865.
Plamann had games of 194, 203 and 204 as he chucked his heavy series and led Laird and Plamann to a 2-3 game win over Lemke Meats, headed by Ballard who had 492.
The Rev. Mr. Reuter wound up with a 600 series and Smith hit 223 as Checker Lunch swept a match with Hotel Appleton Barbers. For the losers, Rehbein had 476.
De Long turned in 464 as Bieritz Music took two from Schabo Meats, led by E. Schabo who rolled 502. With G. Photo shooting 201 and 518, Ideal Photo won two from Huesemann Insurance. For the losers, C. Huesemann hit 479.

Sammy Snead Says Swing's the Thing

Ranking Money Winner One of Favorites at New Orleans

New Orleans, La., (AP)—Samuel Jackson Snead, 25, a ranking money winner in the royal and ancient game of golf, gripped one of his war clubs with big, steady hands and spoke of "The Big Apple."
"You can't dilly-dally around in this game and expect to get anywhere," said the trim athlete from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. "You can't let your nerves get the best of you. It's the hands and feet that count in golf but in a different sense than they're used for the 'Big Apple.'"
"Slammin' Sam" was among those in the $10,000 Crescent City open starting today.
"The thing to do in this game," suggested Sammy, "is to get a good grip on your club, step up to a stance and smack that apple. The swing's the thing and don't let anybody tell you otherwise."
Snead was the reigning choice of many to win his first big tournament of 1939, but no less than a dozen of the topflight golfers were listed as potential victors in the 72-hole four-day competition over the city park course.

the greying Jess is, the look on his face one of incredulous delight that the world should treat him so handsomely after all these years. He sits at a table with the same awed tourists for hours on end.

Dempsey's motive in hiring the hulking creature he battered into obscurity was not, of course, completely altruistic. Jack is a sage business man these days, and the good will of his public is a large part of his stock in trade.

Both Powerful
There isn't near the difference between them there once was, at that. They're both powerful men now. Dempsey, the lean, hollow-cheeked tiger of Toledo, must be around 220 pounds, while Willard, who was an outside to begin with, has a portico that is astounding and probably never will see 300 pounds again.

The other night the two old gladiators put on what was announced as a "reproduction" of their Toledo battle, and we all thought we'd better see it. All things turned out, this was a mistake, for it was a turkey, as they sometimes say on Broadway. It was a flop.

Willard was entirely too fat to appear in trunks. They felt it would embarrass Jess, so they didn't ask him to hoist himself until everything was set. When the ring was fixed and the bell rang, I imagined I saw on Willard's face the same bewildered expression it wore when Dempsey began slugging him in the Toledo sun.

Finish With Waltz
Dempsey, ever the effervescent, rushed out and embraced Willard and tried to kiss him, like a French ambassador. Jess, honest as a clock, tried to hold Dempsey off. Evidently, they hadn't told Jess what his old antagonist was up to. He had been sitting long with the tourists. But eventually he got the gag, and he and Jack finished up waltzing in fairly good step to the orchestra.

Observing this tableau, it was difficult for me to realize here were the two men who met at Toledo, with the whole world watching, and fought a grim fight for the heavyweight championship nearly 20 years ago. The only similarity lay in the fact Willard still didn't know what was going to happen to him next.

Vitt Goes Out on Limb for 2 Stars

Predicts 20 Wins for Feller, Hails Heath as Greatest Hitter

San Francisco, (AP)—Oscar Vitt, a 175-pound charge of Cleveland baseball dynamite, fired a double barreled salute to the American league today.

He flatly stated Bob Feller would win 20 games this season, predicted the young fireball pitcher would string together 30 victories for one year in the near future and declared he was the manager of the greatest hitter in the league, bar none.

Although Jeff Heath finished second in American league batting last year, Vitt described the youthful outfielder as "the best hitter of them all."

Vitt hastened to disclaim he was predicting a pennant for Cleveland. At Seattle, meanwhile, Heath said he was disappointed his club thinks his services are worth less than $12,500 this year.

"But I'm not a holdout," he hastened to add.

He was commenting on the statement of a Cleveland sports editor that he had joined the list of Cleveland holdouts. For nearly a month he and his bride have been honeymooning in a Bainbridge Island cottage on Puget sound.

Kaw Victory Over Shawano Would be Boost for Neenah

able starting cast will be composed of Peterson and Hackstock, forwards; Schmidt, center, and W. Kettering and Hesselman guards.

FINAL HOME GAME

Menasha—Menasha High school cagers will play their final home game of the 1938-1939 Northeastern Wisconsin conference Friday night when New London invades the Menasha High school auditorium.

The Bluejays have won three and dropped six in the conference. The Bulldogs have won five and dropped the same number.

The Jays have shown improvement recently and have a chance to upset the Bulldogs. Menasha broke even with Kaukauna, the same feat the New London team did.

Both teams have defeated Clintonville twice by one-sided scores. The Bulldogs also took two games from West De Pere while Menasha dropped a 17 to 16 decision to the Black Panthers in the only game played so far.

Scared Shawano
Another encouraging sign for the Jays is their showing against Shawano. The Jays dropped a 26 to 22 decision. However, New London lost a 34 to 32 decision to Shawano.

The Bulldogs have picked up several of their victories this year from the free throw line, including the first with Menasha which was taken by New London 33 to 29.

Coach N. A. Calder probably will start his usual lineup. Anderson and Landskron at forwards, Harry Zelski at center, Drucks and Beach at guards. The game is scheduled to start at 8:15.

HOPE FOR UPSET

Kaukauna—High school cagers scrambled the second stringers in an after-supper practice last night at the high school and appeared to have regained their shooting eyes.

The varsity poured in the buckets against the subs and then held on defense without much trouble.

With Neenah demonstrating that Shawano can be beaten the Kaws move on the Indians tomorrow night with the hopes for an upset.

The Kaws are doing better away from home than on the local court this year, having dropped only one game on enemy territory. Last year Kaukauna led Shawano up there for three quarters, being in front 21 to 17, in the last period only to have the Indians rally for a 25 to 21 victory.

Eleven players will make the trip. They are Carl Giordana, Bill Alger, Junior Swedberg, Paul Koch, Joe Bloch, Don Biselex, Andy Meitner, James Sanders, Bill Tessehn, Willis Ranquette and Bob Derus. The second team will go along and engage the Shawano Bees in a 7 o'clock preliminary.

Coach Paul E. Little will start Paul Koch and Don Biselex at forward, Bill Alger at center and Junior Swedberg and Carl Giordana at guard. Joe Bloch will get first call at a forward post in relief of Koch and Biselex. Bloch was regular forward most of the year but in the last few games Koch has gained the position. With Bloch's unorthodox style of shooting he's a good man for a spot in season.

BANG-UP GAME

Shawano—Smashing under a 27-13 shellacking that tumbled them from their undefeated position, the Shawano Indians are looking forward to Friday night's game with Kaukauna here with vengeance in mind, a spirit that bodes ill for the visiting Kaws.

The Indians are now tied with Neenah and need two remaining victories to assure a tie for the conference championship. They are determined to reassert their conference superiority against Kaukauna here, and a gloomy host of Shawano fans, disappointed over Tuesday's defeat, fully expect them to.

Kaukauna, of course, has a little vengeance of its own in mind. The Electric City representatives lost to Menasha last weekend in a 23-22 battle decided in the last seven seconds, so, fired by the same spirit that moves Shawano, they will not

Denney, Hotchkiss Named Officials for Tourney at Menasha

Menasha—Tournament officials have been assigned for the District Class B tournament which will be held in the Menasha High school gymnasium March 8-11, according to word received today by A. J. Armstrong, principal of Menasha High school and tournament manager. The officials will be A. C. Denney, basketball coach at Lawrence college and former Neenah High school coach, and George Hotchkiss, former University of Wisconsin player and coach of the Oshkosh All-Stars. The assignments were made by P. F. Nevenman, secretary of the W. I. A. A.

A dinner meeting of representatives of all teams in the district tournament will be held Wednesday night at Hotel Menasha, according to Armstrong. Plans for the tournament and financial arrangements will be discussed. Schools represented in the tournament will be six Northeastern Wisconsin conference, one from the eastern division of the conference and Waupaca High school.

The other teams are West De Pere, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Clintonville, and New London and East De Pere of the eastern division of the N. E. W. conference.

SWINGS THROUGH COLLEGE

Milwaukee—Eddie Rozmarynoski, trainer of Marquette university varsity athletic teams, owns up to the fact that he paid a large share of his school expenses as a drummer and crooner with a swing band. "Rozy" was a guard on Marquette's 1930-32 football teams.

be easy marks for the local Maroon and Black.

The result should be a bang-up ball game.

Offense Collapsed
The vaunted Shawano offense was sadly lacking in the Neenah debacle, and Billy Reed and company promise themselves that it won't be lacking again. Long view of the situation is that the defeat as a challenge to the team will probably do them more good than harm, but still the concrete result is that the conference crown, considered practically exclusive property, is in danger.

Billy Reed, Shawano's scoring ace, added only three points to his conference record against Neenah, and now holds an aggregate of 133 points in 10 loop games. The star of Urban Gottschalk, who took three rebounds for baskets and added one free loss, is in the ascendancy, however, and the fans fully expect the Indians will make a strong comeback.

Crowd Threatens Williams During Defense of Title

Rowdy Pocan in Unsuccessful Bid for Mat Crown at Menasha

Menasha — Scotty Williams of Louisville, Ky., successfully defended his junior welterweight professional wrestling championship against the challenge of Arnold, the Rowdy, Pocan of Kimberly Wednesday night at S. A. Cook armory.

A crafty, cunning performer who performed every trick possible that kept just within the rules, Williams made himself unpopular with the fans who were pulling for a Pocan victory. Pocan obliged by taking one out of the three falls.

The first fall was all Williams with the champion applying a reverse headlock and a variation of the flying mare effectively. He made effective use of the ropes and battered Pocan's head into the ring posts to turn the crowd against him. Several of the more violent spectators rose to threaten violence but Speedy Franks calmed them.

Pocan Wins Fall

Pocan had his inning in the second round after Williams had taken the first fall with a headlock in seven minutes. Pocan demonstrated that he could get tough too in the second round and after 10 minutes applied a giant swing, a variation of the airplane spin, and finished the hold with a body press.

Pocan continued to take the aggressive in the third round. Twice he applied the giant swing but Williams rolled out of a pinning combination each time. Williams used the ropes whenever he got into trouble and when Speedy Franks tried to keep him away from the ropes, Williams drew the referee into the tangle with a leg scissors. The distraction permitted him to escape from a pinning hold.

Once more Pocan grabbed a full nelson and was ready to apply the giant swing when Williams once again rolled out of the ring post, showed out and fell on top of Pocan. He held on to take the falls with a reverse body press.

Ed Otto wins short work of Jungle Joe Bauer of Amarillo, Texas, also known as Moaning Joe of Kansas City in the grudge match. Otto, also known as Jack O'Dea, went to work with a vengeance on Bauer. He went through a nice variety of holds before taking the first fall. In the grudge match because Bauer hadn't toured Earl Otto very nicely in a tournament at S. A. Cook armory Feb. 1.

Max Johnson of Kingston, Wis., made short work of Tubby Reinhardt of Watertown in the opening bout. Both worked smoothly with Tubby making the most faces. Johnson took the first fall with a Boston crab in 17 minutes. He repeated in eight minutes to force Reinhardt to give up with the same hold.

St. John Meets St. Norbert '3

Little Chute Cagers Must Win to Stay in Running for Title

Little Chute—St. John high cagers will meet DePere tonight to meet the St. Norbert high cagers in a Fox Valley Catholic conference game. The Dutchmen lost a lone hold on first place in conference standings last Friday when they lost to St. Mary's of Menasha after having won five straight games.

St. Mary only has one more game to play and the Dutchmen have two. St. John scored a victory in the last meeting with St. Norbert, but since then has slumped badly and will have to snap out of it to win tonight. A loss tonight at DePere or when they meet St. Peter's at Little Chute Feb. 24, will eliminate them from the title contenders. The St. Peter game is the last before entering the tournament at St. Norbert college gym starting Sunday March 5.

On February 21, the Dutchmen travel to Kimberly to meet the Papermakers in the rubber game of the series, with Kimberly winning at Little Chute 20 to 15, and the locals winning 15 to 16 at Kimberly. The receipts will be split between both schools and an overflowing crowd is expected to jam the Papermakers gym.

The reserves of both schools will tangle in the preliminary starting at 7:15 and the varsity will show at 8:15.

St. Therese and Mt. Olive Clash In Church League

Mt. Olive and St. Therese, both undefeated in church league play in the second half, will meet at 9:30 Saturday evening in the feature game.

Mt. Olive, winner of the first half, has lost only one game to date. That was to the strong St. Therese team. However, it erased that defeat by trimming St. Therese in the first half playoff.

St. Therese has lost only two games the St. Mary and Mt. Olive games, and nothing would please them more than to win Saturday night, insuring them of an excellent chance for the second half flag.

St. Therese will start Cliff Burton, former Lawrence star, at center. Paulie and Rankin will hold down the forward positions while Cy Burton and Bowers will play in the back court. Mt. Olive will start Eddie and McKeefry at forwards. Eddie Krause at center and Huele and Eggert guards.

Newsom's Boss Asks Name on Dotted Line For Nifty Valentine

St. Louis—(AP)—Just to be original on this salary business, holdout Buck Newsom and President Don Barnes of the St. Louis Browns exchanged valentines—but the whole affair was right back in Buck's lap today.

Said the Browns' star pitcher in a telegram:

"To get down to salary facts, will you be my valentine?"

Without reading between the lines, Barnes interpreted it as meaning Newsom still was demanding $22,500 for 1939, and was wondering if the club president's resistance had softened.

Replied Barnes, getting into the proper spirit:

"Your name on the dotted line will make a nifty valentine."

The Browns are reported to be offering their ace right-hander $15,000, a boost of $2,500.

'Biscuit Is Turfdom's Biggest Question Mark

Los Angeles — (AP)—Seabiscuit, jamer than ever before in his life, was turfdom's big question mark today—just 16 days before the running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap which he had been favored to win.

Trainer Tom Smith said he was afraid a suspensory ligament in Seabiscuit's left front ankle had been ruptured in the "Biscuit's" defeat by Neil S. McCarthy's Today in a $2,000 mile race Tuesday.

Dr. J. F. Peters, veterinarian attending Seabiscuit, reported today an x-ray taken of the ankle had revealed no broken bones.

DiMaggio Plans to Train This Season

Preliminary Workouts Total Week and a Half For Last 3 Years

San Francisco —(AP)— Limited to a week and a half of actual training his first three years in the majors, jolting Joe DiMaggio, the Yankees' outfield star, plans really to get in shape for the opening of the 1939 season.

DiMaggio will leave for the St. Petersburg, Fla., camp of the world's champions March 1, in time to arrive for the opening of training four days later.

Because he expects to be in excellent shape for the opening game, DiMaggio predicted "this is going to be my big year."

"Do you know that in three spring training camps that I haven't had over one and a half weeks of actual training?" DiMaggio asked.

"I won't seek homers."

"The first year, I had my foot burned and I was thrown out of training. The second year, I had my tonsils removed, and last year it was my own fault." (He held out until after the season was underway.)

DiMaggio said he was going after the humble baseball, and not homers this season.

He dictated and seemed annoyed at reports here he would shortly sign a contract calling for $26,000. He reportedly received $25,000 last season.

Hollywood — Settlin' Around (Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer) "The Wizard of Oz," which has been in production so long that only Hollywood veterans remember its starting date, is the most interesting picture now shooting — and certainly the most complicated technical problem. Because it is being filmed in Technicolor, which involves the use of several negatives, ordinary photographic tricks — double exposure, etc. — can't be used. All of its illusions — and the script calls for hundreds — have to be produced by special devices.

For instance, the scenes in which the flying monkeys do their cavorting. For the sake of realism, they fly through a forest and actually alight, now and then, in the trees. Each monkey is outfitted with a pair of giant condoor wings.

Metro raided every museum in the country to get them — and an involved mechanism that makes the wings flap realistically. Of course, the monkeys do their actual flying by means of invisible wires, but guiding them through the trees is a task that would have stumped anyone excepting the resourceful engineers of Filmville. High above the stage is a huge electric control board with hundreds of buttons, each one of which determines the movements of a monkey. The expert who operates the board spent more than a month rehearsing the required effects.

Like every other studio, M-G-M guards most of its technical secrets jealously. I think too much secrecy is a mistake, for the average fan would enjoy the picture more if he realized the magic — and the headaches — involved in its making.

umph in a match with Van's alleys. Marland Springstroh wound up with games of 191 and 222 and 588 series to top the winners, while Bill Ransderson totaled 555 for the losers.

Bob Taylor plays a paint salesman in "Lucky Night." When I arrived on the set today, he was before the camera, trying to sell his wares — but not putting on enough high-pressure to suit the director, who after taking the scene three or four times, called for time out and gave Bob a long lecture on the fine art of salesmanship. "With the kind of approach you're using," he argued, "what do you think you could sell?" "Paint!" grinned Bob, happily. "I worked my

Doberman Pinscher Dog World Champion

New York —(AP)— The first doberman pinscher she ever owned today had brought Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge the biggest prize in the American dog world, best in show of the Westminster Kennel club.

This notable addition to Mrs. Dodge's vast kennels at Giralda Farms, Madison, N. J., is Ferry Van Ruitheisen, just two years old, and only two weeks off the boat that brought him here from Germany.

The extra-large but finely proportioned Doberman was crowned best of the 63rd annual Westminster exhibition at Madison Square Garden last night.

way through Pomona college by selling it!"

On the "Wizard of Oz" set, they were shooting one of the final scenes, the one in which the "Wicked Witch" played by Margaret Hamilton, sets fire to the Scarecrow. Every precaution had been taken. Ray Bolger, the Scarecrow, wore a suit of asbestos under his straw padding and a half-dozen firemen stood on the sidelines, armed with buckets of water. In take after take, the Witch touched the Scarecrow's costume with a torch and he burst into flame. Instantly, the cameras stopped whirling and the firemen put out the blaze. Through it all, Ray Bolger was as calm as a statue. Finally the director was satisfied and said so. Then the Witch fainted!

Jack Haley, who plays the Tin Woodman, is getting tired of his cumbersome costume. "Just today," he told me, "I opened a can of sardines. The one on top looked up at me and started to laugh. 'What are you laughing about?' I asked. 'I'm just wondering,' it cracked. 'How long YOU'RE in for?'"

A Short History of China
IX—Manchus and Pigtails
When there is a revolt in a country, it does not always pay to call in help from outside the country's borders. China found that out three centuries ago.
A Chinaman known as "the Rebel Li" raised a small army, and began marching through certain provinces of China. As Li marched, his army grew. For one reason or another, many men were against the emperor, who belonged to the House of Ming. They joined the revolt. Soon the Rebel Li declared, "I am the rightful ruler of China!"

Dragon in Temple of Heaven at Peking.

The emperor was a weak and cowardly man. When he heard about the revolt, he hanged himself.
The only skillful Chinese general at that time was Wu San Kwei. He was away with an army, fighting the Manchus in the north. Learning of the revolt and the death of the emperor, Wu quickly made peace with the Manchus, and said to their leader, "Will you join me and help stamp out the revolt?"
No doubt he offered the Manchus a large sum of money, or some other reward. At any rate, they joined. Wu and marched to put down the rebels.
The deed was done. The revolt was stamped out, and then it was time for the Manchus to go back to their northern homeland, taking whatever reward they had been promised.
The Manchus didn't want to go home. They liked China, and thought they would stay awhile. What was worse they seized power over the whole country, and placed their ruler on the throne of China!

A Manchu emperor made the laws, and when he died another Manchu took his place. There were not nearly so many Manchus as Chinese, but the Manchus made up the soldier class, and in that way kept their power.
One thing the Manchus did in early days was to order Chinese men to let their hair grow long, as a sign they were good subjects. The Chinese didn't like this, but felt they had to obey. By and by the so-called "pigtail" became the custom all over the country. The pigtail was a long braid of hair which hung down the back.
In general the Manchu emperors were good rulers. They let the Chinese keep most of their old customs. Their power lasted into the present century.
The dragon was a symbol of Manchu power. Figures of dragons were carved, and placed in many public places.

Waupaca Board Delays Action on Courthouse Plan

Votes Fund for 4-H Club
Before Adjourning
2-Day Session

Waupaca — Waupaca county supervisors concluded a two-day session of the board by matching up an appropriation from the state, and appropriating another $100 to a fund for fair activities for the use of more than 500 4-H club members in the county, giving the club $1,500 for premiums and participation in county and state fairs.

The building and grounds committee presented for a second time within four months a resolution providing for an addition to the courthouse, and estimated expense totaling $35,000. After long discussions the resolution was again laid over by a vote of 23 to 19.

Calling attention to the increased need for space, Supervisor Ralph High mentioned the "growing by leaps and bounds" with insufficient space for records or vaults. The circuit court room with the judge living within the county can never be used for anything but circuit court, he said. Vault room is limited in all the offices, as is the case, courthouses all over the country which have built many years ago, he stated, adding that in the future taxes are likely to be collected semi-annually, and that dispensing licenses for automobiles undoubtedly will be a part of the work of the county clerk.

No Reserve Fund

The committee believed that the addition could be made this year for more cheaply than for the next 10 or 15 years, and with no increase in taxes. Increasing inheritance taxes within the county, particularly the $33,000 tax from the Hatten estate, gave the committee grounds for hope that there might be a financial reserve for the plans. Chairman L. W. Eastling informed supervisors that the inheritance taxes were already in the general fund, that there is no reserve and that six weeks ago the county actually had to hold up checks for salaries of officials to avoid borrowing $50,000.

A motion to purchase flowage rights and dam-site in Synco, town of Union, for conservation purposes, was lost. The original price of $6,000 was cut to $4,500 with prospects of an even greater cut, but the opinion of the large majority of supervisors was that it would be the wisest plan to wait until the May session of the board for decision.

Resolution from the resolutions committee suggesting elimination of committee work because of the four sessions a year of the county board was adopted. The resolution was the outgrowth of one presented and lost the day before, for putting an extra duty on the county clerk of notifying committees when they were to meet and keeping records of days spent on committee work.

Fair Grounds Question

Last May the board passed a resolution providing for the purchase of the Waupaca county fair grounds at Weyauwega, for a consideration of $6,000, with $1,000 to be paid yearly, and the grounds to be leased to the fair association for $1 a year. At the time the fair committee had expected it would be possible to obtain a WPA setup for improvements but have learned that this cannot be accomplished without a title to the property. The fair association has now offered to transfer back to the county, the land on a land contract, transferring the title also, either for cash or on a deferred payment basis. A motion made by Supervisor Arthur Steinbock authorizing the fair committee to negotiate with the Waupaca County Fair association to obtain title to the property without cash payment, without notes or any further obligation than the resolution passed last year, was carried.

The motion brought out many objections from supervisors and the statement from Chairman Eastling that "I quite agree with you that the county doesn't want the grounds, but we should be men enough to stand back of the proposition that we have backed. I wouldn't go on record as defaulting."

DANGEROUS SERVICE

By GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

up-country tomorrow," Peter told him hardily.

"Before we all scatter," added Petrel sadly.

"You seem to have arranged it already. But, of course, I know what it is — ship friendships. I'll take you along to the Gym myself, Petrel, and meet Peter there. Someone will give him a lift, I expect. But you're to come straight home to dinner when the dancing ends, at eight o'clock."

Less Pleasant Things

Petronella sat beside Peter in the back of the car, which took them through squalid crowded native streets to the Kemmendale Chummary.

This country might lay a spell upon him Peter thought. It was sunny and colorful. The Burmese had such smiling, honey-colored faces. The women dressed with such fragile, exquisite art. But there were less pleasant things to consider. This heat, which sent a stream of perspiration continually running down your spine. The dirty gutters, flies, and dust, of the meaner streets. The spattering of chewed betel nut, straining the ground. The beggars. The short paragraphs in the Rangoon papers, describing horrible murders, which seemed everyday affairs.

How many years would he have to spend here, he wondered? Would he be able to withstand the moral rot he feared? What would the other men at the chummary be like? Would rice milling prove deadening or interesting occupation?

Knowing his own restlessness, Peter was afraid. Merrill had said there was going to be a lot more trouble. That might prove fortunate, for him. Something definite must happen, otherwise he might never write anything for Rowdon, and the Daily News.

The car turned in between unpainted gate posts, and jerked to a stop before a ramshackle looking old brown bungalow.

"Here we are, old girl." A servant came running down the steps and took his baggage.

"The rest are working I expect. I'll see you later."

He stood bareheaded, waving to Petrel, till the car swung out through the gates.

If it had not been for Peter's attitude towards the future, his desire to escape from Maller's Rice Mill at the earliest opportunity, Petronella would have allowed herself to love life in Rangoon. She was soon accustomed to being consistently bitten to sleeping under a mosquito net. To the noisy Eastern night, with its croaking, buzzing, droning, twittering chorus.

Petronella rode, swam, danced, played tennis, was invited everywhere. She went, wearing her best dress, and long white gloves, to Government House, to dance with men in resplendent uniforms. Burma lay in the background of this European social life, like an attractive drop curtain. Had it not been for Peter, she might never have troubled, or wished to peer behind it. She might have evaded serious conversations upon the problems of the country. She might have discounted the rumors, and stories she heard, brushing them aside with uneasy laughter, because they were inconvenient threats against her pleasure. It was upon a typical Monday evening that her first real glimpse was forced upon her.

The Children's Corner

On Monday they danced at the Gymkhana Club before dinner. She and Peter had formed what had become termed "The Children's Corner." This was composed of eight or nine girls, and twenty or so young men. They made great deal of fun, and enjoyed themselves. But the "Children's Corner" was unpopular with Colonel Mallone, since none of the older among Petronella's admirers liked to intrude, to ask her to dance.

"I hope you're coming home to dinner this evening," the Colonel asked, upon this day, petulantly.

"Peter and Colin have asked Jean and me to eat with them at the bungalow."

"You go down to that disreputable chummary of Peter's a great deal too often," he exploded irritably. "Peter is only just starting a new job and he ought to get on with it. He goes out much too much."

"But we do thing very cheaply, always, father, and it doesn't affect his work."

"That isn't the only reason I'm annoyed, and you know it. If you'd been home, I should have asked Crampington to dine with us. He told me he tried to get a dance with you this evening, but your program was filled. You're being extremely stupid, Petronella."

Petrel left shaken and angry. "We had a very nice time," Mr. Crampington. You're always throwing that man at me. He's nice, but he's too old!" At this moment she wondered whether she hated, or loved Burma. Loved it, she supposed, most of the time. Until, as now, all her pride was raised in rebellion against it. If only she were free to live as she pleased! She would take a job in one of the offices, and set up house with Peter. She would commit a social offense, but she would be self-respecting, free. But it was unthinkable, father said. In Singapore, or in China, yes, but not in Burma, or India. He could not allow her to work. One was never free, when one was young and dependent. This scene was a repetition of the one last week. It did not do any good a flare up, as she had done last time. To insist that she was willing to go home, if she failed to marry before he retired, to earn her own living. Her challenge only drew forth ugly warnings of inevitable failure.

Her father went on: "I want you to make friends with men who could afford to support you. I'm not suggesting you should get married, or even engaged yet while you're too young. But you are getting into the wrong set. It will land you in a foolish, disastrous entanglement. I can only afford to keep you here, and entertain for you, for a year or so, until I retire."

Petronella understood his point of view, but disliked it, desperately. "I can't help liking them so much better, father, the younger people. I'm not in love with anyone."

"Well, you can go with Peter tonight, but you must see less of them in future," her father grumbled, temporarily mollified. "It's for your own good. You're too old to hang on to your brother as you do. You should have outgrown that childish hero worship!" Hero worship! Of Peter! Petronella could not help smiling.

"You're as thick as thieves, the two of you!" Poor father!

He was jealous, just as he had

New York—(AP)—The stock market, tuned in on a rallying wave today with steel and aircrafts providing the feature performance.

Gains ran to 2 points or so at the best, although top marks were clipped down a trifle in most cases at the close by profit-taking.

Dealings, fairly lively in the forenoon, slumped appreciably after noon. Transfers approximating 900,000 shares, however, were almost double the turnover of Wednesday.

Domestic business news, brokers said, apparently was sufficiently cheering to inspire many commission house customers to get back on the buying side.

At the same time, a number of traders continued to cling to neutral territory because of apprehension over a possible fresh foreign crisis which could be touched off following a Spanish peace.

Wall street, though, watched the unbroken flow of gold from overseas to America with the thought these funds would be used to purchase armament materials sooner or later and thus bolster earnings of the country's important corporations.

Industrial staples developed forward leanings. Grains were mixed. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off 1/2 of a cent a bushel and corn up 1/2 to 3/4 of a cent, in the afternoon, was up 15 cents a bushel to down 3 cents. Secondary rail loans, along with government, tilted higher in the bond department.

European securities markets improved. Sterling and the French franc were narrow in late transactions.

Today's Market

New York—(AP)—Stocks firm; steel, aviation stocks gains. Bonds improved; rails pace most upturn.

Curb higher; industrials advance. Foreign exchange easy; goldster, cotton steady; covering and sugar buying.

Sugar uneven; liquidation; Cuban buying. Coffee higher; foreign buying. Wheat shade lower. Corn higher. Cattle steady to higher. Hogs 5 to 15 higher.

Preparedness Is Key to Security, Dohr Tells Club

Captain in Army Reserve Explains U. S. Defense Setup

Kaukauna — National preparedness as the key to national security in a world growing more war-like every day was stressed by Raymond P. Dohr, Appleton, army reserve captain, yesterday before the Rotary club at Hotel Kaukauna. The program was a part of national defense week, held this year from Feb. 12 to Feb. 22. Dohr was accompanied by Major A. A. Kuehnstedt, state chairman for defense week observance.

Dohr explained the organization of the reserve officers association, which sponsors national defense week. Its members earn their commissions through correspondence courses, C.M.T.C. work or graduation from the R.O.T.C. Dohr said, and get experience in 2 weeks of summer camp every year.

Dohr described the defense scheme of the United States army, saying that the reserve officers must bear the brunt of any emergency. The regular army only numbers some 166,000 officers and men, and it is the reserve officers who must take over until more men can be trained.

Form of Insurance
National preparedness is a form of "insurance" against war, Dohr explained. There has not been a day since the World war that some countries have not been fighting, he said, and there is always the chance that America will become involved. A force that will command the respect of all countries will be a powerful deterrent to offensive acts from other nations.

It may be necessary in time to use our armed forces to quell outbreaks within this country, Dohr continued. The various "ism" groups, now far in the minority, may make such progress that they will seriously threaten the government, and then a strong army and navy would be necessary to suppress them, he said.

"The United States is the most powerful country in the world, and, properly armed, can be a tremendous force for peace," Dohr stated. "In the World war we were very much unprepared, and participated in the conflict to the accompaniment of waste and inefficiency. Today all our resources, men, material and brains, must be coordinated to insure protection against invasion, and thus by their very existence discourage such attack."
